

President Honors Three Astronauts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson presented gold medals today to America's three astronauts who sailed around the moon and said the achievement showed that there are few problems that cannot be conquered by the "heavens or hunger, or moonshots and urban renewal."

At a ceremony in the East Room of the White House starting a big day for the spacemen in Washington—including an appearance before a joint meeting of Congress—the President said, "We are quite proud that they are all Americans . . . but they represented all mankind."

He then warmly shook the three astronauts' hands and presented them the space agency's Distinguished Service Medals. In turn, he received from them a photograph of "the LBJ ranch as seen from space" and a miniature reproduction of the international treaty to ban weapons from space.

The Washington activities honoring the space heroes opened a packed, six days of acclaim for the trio. Their first post-flight news conference was set for mid-afternoon in Washington followed by a dinner tonight.

On Friday they get a ticker-tape parade in New York. A miniparade—more of a motorcade—took them up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol today following the White House awards ceremony.

Ray, Bell Not Going

Locally, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan of Kingston and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Woodstock told The Freeman that they would not be attending a state dinner for the astronauts tomorrow night in New York City due to prior business. The dinner will be hosted by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and will include more than 3,000 New York State civic leaders, legislative leaders and educators.

County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago indicated today that his plans were still tentative although he said he had made reservations in New York. Over in Dutchess County, David C. Schoentag, county executive, will attend. There has been no word from Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., also invited to the state dinner.

"I'm glad he wants to be an astronaut Mr. President," said acting Space Agency Administrator Thomas Paine as Luc's Nugent unceremoniously escorted the child out of the crowded room.

Borman told Johnson as he fondled his medal that the three astronauts thought they had experienced every emotion known to man during their 10 Christmas Eve flights around the moon, but said of the White House ceremony: "This tops it."

Anders presented the President and Mrs. Johnson two miniature copies of the treaty banning nuclear weapons in which the astronauts had carried with them in the Apollo 8 capsule during their historic flight.

It was Lovell who gave Johnson a "picture of the LBJ ranch" from space. Actually, it showed the earth as photographed just over the moon's horizon.

During the awards presentation, Johnson said: "The flight of Apollo 8 gives all nations—all nations—a new and a most exciting reason to join in man's greatest adventure."

"And finally, if there is an ultimate truth to learn from this historic flight, it may be this: there are few social or scientific problems which cannot be solved by man if they truly want to solve them together—to heavens or hunger or moonshots and urban renewal."

Borman, Lovell and Anders' earth from orbit around the moon.

For their feat, Borman, Lovell and Anders were selected to receive the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Distinguished Service Medal. After the ceremony, plans included an unofficial motorcade parade of 13 cars to carry the 54 members of the official party—including the astronauts' families and Borman's parents in the Capitol Hill, where each

This congressional appearance was to be followed two hours later by the news conference in the State Department auditorium.

The Washington celebrations were only the start of a string of activities scheduled to last five more days and take place in four other cities.

Friday the moonflyers were to appear in a tickertape parade on Broadway in New York, visit the United Nations and attend a formal state dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel hosted by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

They planned to fly to Miami Saturday for the NFL-AFL Super Bowl football game between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Jets on Sunday, and then return to Houston.

Rockefeller Awaits Reaction To State Budget Reduction

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller and his fiscal advisers sat back today and awaited what one veteran state senator predicted would be a "violent" reaction to Rockefeller's plan for a five per cent, across-the-board slash in state spending.

"I shudder to think of it," said Sen. Edward J. Speno, a ranking Republican from Nassau County, where tax-burdened property owners press insistently for more state aid to education.

Rockefeller's call for an increase in the state's sales tax—a jump from two to three per cent—took no one by surprise. But his proposal to reverse the upward spiral of state spending left many legislators literally speechless.

When queried for comment, most rank-and-file state lawmakers said they really didn't know how they felt about it. Most confessed they were afflicted by mixed emotions.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea starts streamlining effort in Albany. Story on Page 36.

On one hand, they had been criticizing Rockefeller for years for what they regarded as a much too liberal tax-and-spend approach to governing New York State. They had felt no hesitation about knocking his swelling state budgets.

So, the governor's surprise move toward drastic economies appealed to the legislators' conservative impulses. It would be nice, many felt, to go back and tell their constituents that they had voted for meaningful economies.

At the same time, they were mindful of the constant pressure from their home communities and local school districts for ever-increasing financial help.

After Rockefeller delivered his annual "State of the State" message to Wednesday's opening session of the 1969 legislature, one of his chief fiscal advisers left the Assembly chamber with a satisfied smile.

"Let's see what their attitude is next week, after they talk with the folks back home," he said.

Both the Senate and Assembly adjourned for the week upon completing the formalities of organizing for the present session and listening with somber politeness to the governor's conservative fiscal plan.

Most headed back home immediately to see what the reaction would be.

Speno had no doubts about the mood on Long Island. "I would say that we cannot go backward," he declared.

The comment of other prominent Republicans was mixed. GOP State Chairman Charles A. Schoenck praised Rockefeller's "sound reaction" to the state's fiscal problems. Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and the new Assembly speaker, Perry B. Duryea Jr., expressed guarded approval of Rockefeller's plan.

But New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay clearly was disturbed by the prospect that he would receive none of the $490 million in extra state aid for his city that he sought.

Asserting that all cities in the state faced dire fiscal problems, Lindsay said:

"Failure by the state to provide additional assistance to its cities would be chaotic, but to cut back existing aid for programs mandated on localities by the state would be disastrous."

The legislature's Democratic leaders, Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, the Assembly's new minority leader, assailed the proposed economy cut as "indiscriminate."

Rockefeller prescribed the combination of a sales tax increase and a broad spending reduction as the best way of closing what he said could be a $620 million income-outgo gap in his next budget, after paring all spending requests to the "bare bones." Without economies, the industry and talented executive personnel.

He said he believed that the legislators would come to his view that "this is about as far as we can go" in the upward tax-and-spend spiral.

Discussing implementation of the economy cut, details of which are to be spelled out in his annual budget message on Jan. 21, Rockefeller said that each department would have to decide where to economize.

"It may well mean," he conceded, "that some departments are going to have to let some people go."

Aides later maintained that state tax rates had climbed most staff economies could be implemented by not filling vacant jobs, rather than laying off employees.

Break for Freedom Races Castro Guns

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A young Cuban refugee who braved killer dogs and machine-gun fire to reach the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo said Wednesday about 1,000 people had been killed in the past year trying to cross the fence to freedom.

The 18-year-old youth was one of 87 refugees who dashed into the base Monday morning in what is believed the largest mass escape from the Castro regime.

However, for every two people who made it across the fence Monday, one stayed behind, he said.

"It was horrible for the ones who didn't make it," said the youth, who wouldn't give his name to newsmen. "I saw the guards shoot three of the prisoners at close range. They just tumbled over."

Eighty members of the group arrived in Miami Wednesday aboard two U.S. Navy planes.

One of the men said three members of the group were cut down by machine-gun bullets and a woman was torn apart by dogs loosed by guards who patrol around the naval base.

The man, who also declined to give his name for fear his relatives in Cuba would be harmed, said two guards were felled by escapees' bullets.

Transported to Miami were 46 men, 13 women and 21 children. Seven remained at the naval base.

One of the leaders said the escape began early Monday when the group stole a truck in Havana and began a 600-mile westward journey to the base, picking up passengers as they went. By the time they reached the base, more than 120 were crammed into the truck.

"We parked the truck about 600 meters from the base and ran for it," said one of the men. "The men carried the children . . . and a lot of those who didn't make it were women and children."

He estimated about 30 members of the group failed to get across the base's barbed wire fence.

"We ran like rabbits and fell over each other when the guards began firing," said a slim youth. "Then they turned loose about a dozen dogs. I think they were Russian dogs, big, black dogs."

"Shootings there are not unusual," said the 18-year-old. "About 1,000 persons must have lost their lives in the past year trying to get inside."

In Washington, the Navy refused to discuss the incident, which is the normal policy.

Hundreds of Cuban workers used to cross daily to jobs on Guantanamo but six years ago the Cuban army stopped the crossings and cleared a wide swath of brush away from the chain-link fence guarding the base.

Cuban machine-gun posts now surround the perimeter.

The Weather: Take a Pick

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Winter came up with a mixed bag of tricks overnight, hampering travel and closing schools over a wide area.

An inch and a half of snow fell in Kingston up to 7 a. m. today when the storm changed to freezing rain. At Belleayre Ski Center, four inches of new snow fell during the night. Early morning on the mountain saw a mixed mess of rain and sleet with temperatures starting a downward trend.

In the city, the mercury was on an upward trend after a low of 16 degrees recorded at 5 a. m. Forecasters predict further warming in the afternoon will bring intermittent rain before the storm's end in the early evening.

Crews Out Early

City and county highway crews were on the job early today trying to keep up with the changing road conditions. George Fitchner, acting superintendent of highways for the county, said delivery of 100 tons of salt was expected today and 300 tons on order should be arriving in the near future. Salt and sand supplies were reported at low level earlier this week.

School closings throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley were widespread this morning. Public and parochial schools in Kingston, Saugerties and New Paltz as well as Ontario, Rondout Valley, Millbrook, Catskill, Highland, Red Hook were in recess for the day. Ulster County Community College day classes were suspended. Decision on convening evening classes will be made after an appraisal of road conditions later today.

Today's storm pattern closely resembled Tuesday's snowfall with northern and western sections of the state bearing the brunt of the accumulation. Traditional snow belt sections of the state may expect six to 12 inches of white before dawn Friday. Heavy squall activity is forecast off Lake Ontario overnight.

Traveler Warnings Out

Meanwhile, the southeastern sections of the state faced "dangerous" driving conditions as the ice bucket hit Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester Counties. Traveler warnings were out for the entire state.

The state picture was a duplicate of the national scene east of the Rockies. Northern sections are in the clutch of real winter, while just south of the snow belt freezing rain slicked highways in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

A cold wave is reported on the heels of the storm and dippy temperatures can be expected in southern and eastern portions as frigid air moves in from the Northern Plain states.

Speaking of cold waves, remember last January with its prolonged deep freeze? Last year on this date, the city engineer's office recorded a minus 16 instead of a plus 16 as the low temperature. Minus readings were the rule rather than the exception throughout the miserable month.

January's bag of tricks is always mixed.

Intensive Manhunt Leads to Capture

Two FBI Agents Slain by Bank Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man charged with slaying two FBI agents surrendered meekly in the attic of an apartment house Wednesday night, climaxing an intense house-to-house manhunt in the Capital's South East section.

The capture of Billie Austin Bryant, 38-year-old auto repairman and prison escapee, came less than seven hours after the agents who sought to question him about a bank robbery were found dead in the hallway of his estranged wife's home.

The slain agents were Anthony Palmisano, 26, and Edwin Woodruffe, 27, a Negro and the first of his race to die in the line of duty with the FBI.

The slayings, which touched off a search by hundreds of police dogs, and submachine gun-toting colleagues of the dead agents, followed by less than two hours the armed holdup of a suburban Maryland Savings and Loan company.

A teller had reported Bryant's name to police, saying she recognized him as a former customer.

Bryant, sought since he escaped from the nearby Lorton Reformatory in Virginia last August, was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on two counts of murder and held without bail until a hearing Jan. 23. The agents were the 22nd and 23rd to be killed on duty in the history of the bureau. Only once before—in 1934—were two agents killed at the same time.

The bodies of the agents were found by a policeman lying one atop the other after a report was broadcast that a policeman had been shot.

Two helicopters hovered over the rundown section bordered by a wooded area as law offi-than a year of an 18-to-54 year sentence for robbing a Maryland Savings and Loan firm.

The 6-foot-2, 170-pound Bryant, a skilled auto repairman and a native of Mt. Olive, N.C., had lived "for at least two or three years" at the apartment where the agents were slain, its manager, Harry Cohen, said.

Robert Ross, who lives in the building where Bryant was captured, said his wife heard noises in the attic shortly after noon. After they persisted into the evening, he called police.

Police Capt. Charles M. Monroe, head of the Special Operations Division, called into the attic and asked if Bryant were there. The man called back through a trap door that he was Bryant, and Monroe ordered him to throw down his weapons. A revolver came through the trap door, and Bryant followed it.

Monroe described him as meek.

Woodruffe was married and had two children. He became an agent in May 1967 and was assigned to Washington last Feb. 28 after being stationed in Cleveland.

Palmisano was married but had no children. He joined the FBI in 1960 as a clerk and became an agent in 1967 in Charlotte, N. C. He came to Washington last Oct. 29.

Consumer Survey Due For the County Area

During the next few weeks, year. Families will be asked Professor George Katrona, interviewers from The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center will be calling at homes in this area for the Center's 24th annual Survey of Consumers. Selected addresses in 76 communities across the United States have been chosen as a cross section of American homes.

Mrs. Walter S. Herring of Ulster Park and Mrs. George F. Carter of Creek Locks are the interviewers.

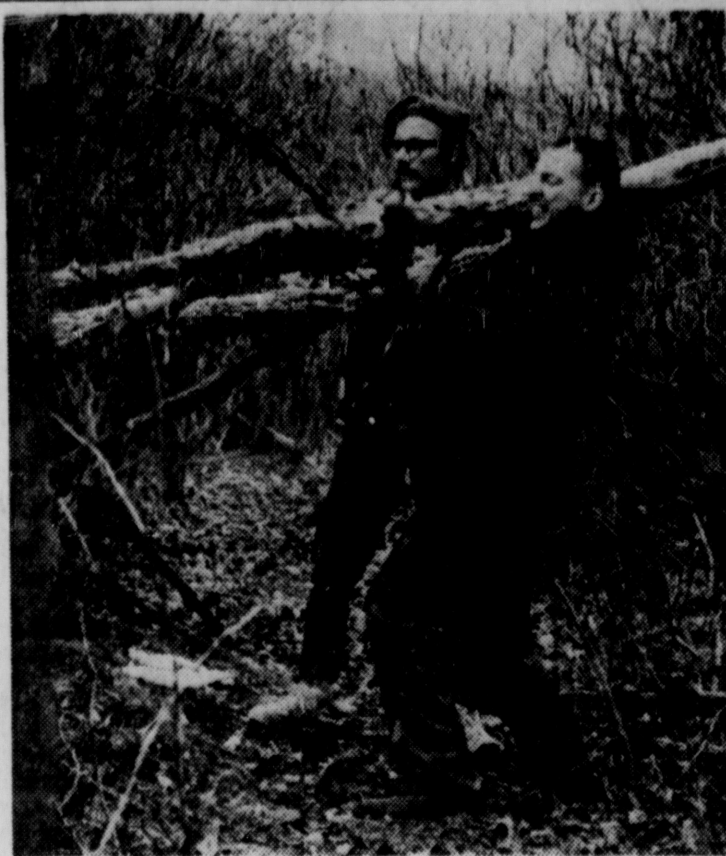

The Center hopes to learn how American view present business and economic conditions and how they feel things are likely to develop during the coming how they spend and save money, and how they manage general household finances. Most of the families to be interviewed this year were also interviewed on the last two studies, in 1967 and 1968. The purpose of following up the same families is to measure the changes that occur in their opinions, expectations, and financial situations over time.

Information obtained from Survey Research Center interviews is held in strict confidence. Data collected in this year's Survey of Consumers will be studied and analyzed by Professor James N. Morgan, and Dr. Frank P. Stafford of The University of Michigan. Their findings will be used by business leaders, government agencies, students and educators in order to learn more about U.S. economic trends. Study findings are also published in newspapers, national magazines, and professional journals.

The Survey Research Center is a division of the University's Institute for Social Research, and has been conducting important social and economic studies of the American people for more than 20 years.

TIMBER — Rob Gannon and Jack Sartorius clear a trail for the first annual High Falls Snowmobile Gymkhana to be held Sunday, Feb. 16 as part of the year-long celebration of the hamlet's 300th anniversary. The mile-long cross country loop trail through the woods, along Rondout Creek and across the tow path of the old D&H Canal, centers on the Gannon property, Berne Road, between High Falls and Allgerville. Everyone with a snowmobile may participate. There are no entry fees. Those wishing to register may do so at Sartorius Service Station, Route 209 between Stone Ridge and Accord or by calling Jack Sartorius.

$26,668 in Fees

Dog Funds to City, Towns

The distribution of $26,668.84 of the surplus portion of dog license fees collected in 1968 to the City of Kingston and the 20 towns in the county was authorized this week by the County Legislature.

The report by the County Treasurer's Office to the Legislature noted that a total of $73,884.48 was collected. Disbursements included $3,690.10 or 10 per cent of the fees to the Department of Agriculture and Markets; $7,022.70 for preparing lists of dog owners; $2,222.80 paid in claims for damage done by dogs; $32.10 for reporting delinquents; $70.77 for bibles for services and mileage. The total disbursements is $38,325.03 including $25,276.56 already apportioned to the towns and city of the county.

The City of Kingston contributed $1,524.40 in fees, penalties and costs and was apportioned 75 per cent of the surplus, or $1,011.76. Towns are listed showing first the amount contributed and the amount returned to the township.

Denning $182—$120.80; Esopus $2,781—$1,845.78; Gardiner $1,581—$1,049.33; Hardenbergh $3,338.46; Shandaken $1,061—$166—$110.18; Hurley $2,430—$1,612.82; Town of Kingston $278—$184.51; Lloyd $2,678—$1,777.42; Mariboro $1,629—$1,061.19; Mariboro $1,754—$1,164.15; New Paltz $2,284—$1,515.91; Olive $918—$609.29; Plattekill $1,905—$1,264.37; Rochester $1,934—$1,283.62; Rosendale $2,397—$1,590.91; Saugerties $5,030—$3,338.46; Shandaken $1,061—$704.20; Shawangunk $2,120—$1,407.07; Ulster $2,723—$1,807.28; Wawarsing $2,772—$1,839.80; and Woodstock $2,034—$1,349.99. The total contributed during 1968 was $40,181.40. However, there was a balance in the account of $33,702.08.

WHITA's Form of Protest Hearts and Pickets for Rocky

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller can expect a Valentine's present from a local taxpayer's group, but he may not like it. The group, WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association), met last night at the Hertz Warner offices on Albany Avenue and made plans for a protest against the "increased" costs in Rockefeller's new budget. They will picket in Albany on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14 at 11 a.m. at the state capitol. The group made plans on three fronts last night. They carry signs that read "We've Had It, Rocky" and "Have a Heart, Rocky." The latter will large member of the WHITA also appear on billboards throughout the county during February. It is also hoped that those Ulster County residents who presented themselves at the budget hearing Dec. 26, Sonnenberg explained that his committee could not get copies of the mayor's budget until Dec. 24 and did not have time to thoroughly study it. Sonnenberg concluded that the sales tax.

There was also some question as to the legality of building a new city hall in Downtown Kingston without a public referendum. The group also agreed to study the 33-member setup of the county legislature and decide if that many representatives were truly necessary. It was pointed out that Nassau County has eight legislators.

Oakley Paltz Assessor

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

NEW PALTZ — This town has a new chief assessor Leslie Oakley present secretary of the Zoning Board of Appeals. Oakley was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the retired assessor chairman, William Heidgerd, whose resignation was announced Dec. 18. The appointment was announced last night during the regular meeting of the board. Oakley submitted his resignation to the zoning board Tuesday. Oakley, who was born and raised in New Paltz, had retired from the State University last July 1, having served as associate professor of social studies. The new chief assessor had attended New Paltz Normal School before transferring to New York University in New York City. He received his BA degree from NYU. Oakley taught at a Spring Valley Junior High School and was an elementary school principal in the Rockland County Town of Garnerville before returning to New Paltz to supervise student teaching at the college. Oakley will serve as $3,500 a year chairman of the assessor board until November, the expiration date of Heidgerd's term. Supervisor Anthony Morello also announced the setting up of a special account for the water district.

Fish Due in Area

WASHINGTON — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., has planned Saturday visits to the district to hold in-person office hours and today announced that Mrs. Joseph Schrotz of Hyde Park will be his Dutchess County Congressional District office manager.

Fish's first in-person representation will be next Saturday at two of his district offices. He will keep office hours at 70 Market Street Poughkeepsie by appointment and will be at his Hudson office from 2 to 4 p. m. at 711 Warren Street.

Persons wishing to speak to Fish at his Poughkeepsie office are asked to call prior to Saturday.

The new congressman plans to travel the district each Saturday with the exception of Jan. 18 when he will be in Washington for the inauguration.

Mrs. Schrotz will be in the Poughkeepsie office on a full-time basis starting Monday, Jan. 13. She worked for Fish during the 1966 election campaign and comes to his office from the Jones Travel Agency, Hyde Park, where she has been employed as a travel consultant for the past year.

In announcing the appointment, Fish said, "During the 1966 campaign when she worked very closely with me, I found Mrs. Schrotz to be a fine woman, with a deep sympathy and understanding for people's problems. These are the qualities I have been looking for in the person to handle my office. I am delighted Mrs. Schrotz has decided to work with me."

The Rosendale Feud Goes On

By LYNN MULVANEY

ROSENDALE — The running feud between the village and town of Rosendale flared into the open again last night when Supervisor Gerard DeFelice took sharp exception to a village proposal concerning dumping facilities saying it was an "insult."

During a December meeting of the village board Councilman William Ritter suggested that the village police force be abolished and that the town police offer protection. In return, the village would allow the town more space at the dump.

"We have no need of a dump. We have a dump," DeFelice countered at the town board meeting. "I suggest the village forget petty politics for the sake of the people of the village because it is costing them a lot of money. It is also insulting to the police force of the village."

DeFelice suggested to his own board that they consider refuse pickup on a town-wide basis because the cost of maintaining the dump is going to "skyrocket" and it is going to have to be closed.

"If the village refuses to close, we can't take the responsibility," he added.

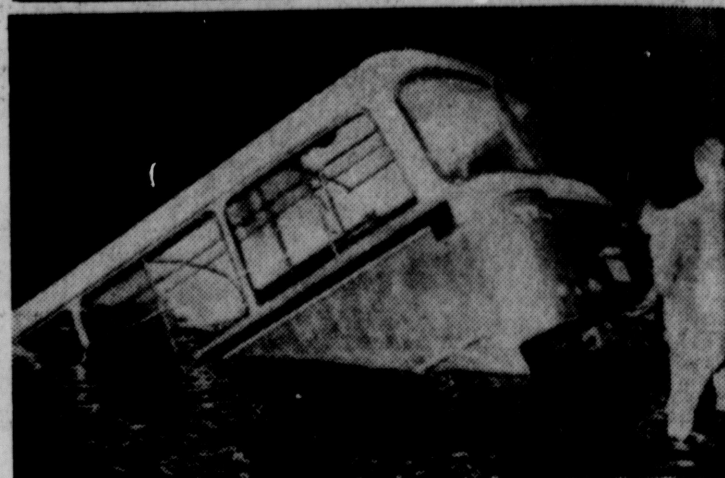

Talk then centered on the possibility of fencing in the property and great concern was expressed for the number of rats multiplying at the facility. DeFelice said the town had spent extra money on poison to control them but that "we are going to be overrun."

The supervisor reviewed the progress of the past year calling attention to the success of vestpocket park and suggesting the creation of additional ones. He recalled that the police car had been paid for, that this present year will be the last for making payments on the High Falls Bridge and that taxes were down. He praised the constables for their work in connection with arranging for the distribution of 135-pound food baskets for the holiday.

Glenn Debrosky was named deputy supervisor, a newly created post and announcement was made concerning the appointment of Jerome Mack to fill out the unexpired term of George Bockelmann who resigned as highway superintendent.

Other appointments include William Curran as attorney and historian, Mrs. Olive Burd as dispatcher, Natalie Mansfield welfare officer; Ferdinand Fiedler, chairman of assessors; Robert Dyne, head constable and all other constables reappointed. The Kingston Daily Freeman was named the official newspaper and National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties the official bank.

Joseph Manacilo was named building inspector, Aletha Sulko, school guard; Ernest Hopper, recreation; dog warden, the ASPCA; tax collector, Joan Every; deputy tax collector, James Every; clerk to the supervisor, Mrs. Anita Kelder and dump custodian, Walter Struber.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 9, 1969

Let It be a Warning

New York City has fixed a budget of $1,903,750,000 to pay for its welfare and anti-poverty programs in 1969.

Let that figure stand by itself to sink in. For it is based on an average welfare population of 1,222,000 for the year, with the actual total to exceed 1.3 million persons 18 months from now, by June 30, 1970.

Granted that the welfare population of New York is the largest in the country and the largest in proportion to the city's total population. Nevertheless, any projection of these figures to the country as a whole emphasizes the horrendous size and cost of welfare in this country and the drain it must cause on the working and earning people of the country.

In round figures, New York has about four per cent of the people of the country. These 7,780,000 persons are paying $1.9 billion for the care and support of 1.3 million non-earning persons. That is to say, six working people pay for the support of one welfare client.

On a national scale, this would require that the 200 million population pay $57 billion a year for the support of 33 million persons on welfare and poverty programs. Obviously, these are unrealistic figures for the country as a whole, but for the metropolis they are only too true.

They emphasize how great has become the flight to the welfare haven which New York has become to the rest of the country, and what a burden that has imposed on residents of the big city. For the welfare and poverty budget is paid by New York city taxpayers, with some help from state and federal sources.

We can see the justice of the proposals before Congress for national standards of residency and payments for welfare, to reduce the urge to fly to New York and other welfare havens. This would eliminate the congestion that makes the slums and create social problems in the big cities.

The Nixon inaugural cannot be insured against riots. Past inaugurations were insured against almost any threat from any quarter. This one is uninsurable because of "the climate we live in," said G. Dewey Arnold Jr., chairman of the inaugural's insurance committee. It's a costly climate!

No Execution Year

For the first year on record, there were no executions in this country in 1968. At least in part, this is due to a national courtroom campaign by two civil liberties groups against the death penalty. They have succeeded in raising so many constitutional objections to the death penalty that years of litigation may be required before executions resume, if they ever do.

We say if they ever do, because the death penalty has been abolished in nine states and four others permit it only in such special circumstances as the murder of a policeman. The Supreme Court also ruled last April that the "Lindbergh law" was unconstitutional because it only permitted a jury to impose a death sentence. By inference, other laws which put pressure on a defendant to ask for a trial by a judge became suspect, reducing the possibility of the death penalty further.

What the American Civil Liberties Union and N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund are both pressing for is a de facto abolition of the death penalty, which they seem to have accomplished last year. The longer this lasts, the harder they believe it will be to restore this harsh sentence.

The high in executions in this country was 199 in 1935. These had dwindled to two in 1967, probably reflecting a growing public sense that executions do not reduce crime; though the mounting crime rate, while executions decreased, would seem to refute this belief. Executions should not be dependent on legal maneuvering. An objective study of the effect, on the crime rate, of executions and their abolishment is the only way to determine whether the death penalty is a deterrent. After all, that is its main justification.

The Sands of Time

David Lawrence Says

Sen. Edward Kennedy Is Taking Long Look Ahead

WASHINGTON — Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts may not seek or get the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972 because of his youth, but it's a better-than-even bet that someday he will be selected by the Democratic National Convention for that post of leadership.

There is a sharp contrast between the Massachusetts Senator and his two brothers, each of whom also served in the United States Senate. Many of those who have known all three speak of Ted Kennedy as "the nicest of the Kennedys." His decision to enter the contest for assistant Majority Leader indicates primarily his desire to be what is called a "Senate man." John F. Kennedy did not identify himself closely with the work of the Senate, and neither did Robert F. Kennedy. Both were more concerned with what they believed was the best political course to be followed to obtain the presidential nomination — to give speeches and maintain contacts with political organizations throughout the country.

Edward Kennedy, on the other hand, has been anxious to make friends among Senators of both parties, and has taken a deep interest in the work of the Senate itself. As a result, he has been accepted as a conscientious member of the upper house. This is one of the reasons why he was able to win out in the close race for assistant majority leader. Even some of those who voted in opposition speak of him privately in complimentary terms.

The Massachusetts Senator is not inclined to engage in what is called "risk politics" — a phrase which was often applied to Robert Kennedy because of a willingness to take chances. Edward Kennedy will try instead to build up his position in the Senate by assisting energetically in leadership tasks as well as sponsoring important legislation.

The youngest of the Kennedy brothers has plenty of time to develop prestige inside the party, and it is unlikely that he will attempt to become identified with any one faction. He is expected to adopt a course of moderation and conciliation because of a belief that this will improve his opportunity not only eventually to win his party's nomination but to be elected president.

The Massachusetts Senator comes from a political family, but many observers in Congress say he is much more cautious and less likely to take any extreme position than did his brothers. The feeling is that he will prefer instead to make a legislative record which would be in keeping with the trend of public opinion at the time he makes his bid for the presidency.

The Kennedy family has proved in the last decade that it can build up influential ties in state and local organizations of the Democratic party. As early as 1956, John F. Kennedy came close to winning the vice-presidential nomination by reason of careful planning and organizational work. By 1960, he had made such advances within the party that nobody was able to defeat him in his drive to become the Democratic candidate for the presidency.

Senator Edward Kennedy is taking a long look ahead and probably will not press for the nomination four years hence if the Democratic party is in disarray and if the Nixon administration has made enough progress to warrant a vote of approval at the polls in 1972. Eight years may seem far away, but Ted Kennedy will be only 44 years old in 1976, and he would not have the handicap of youth which would be cited against him by the opposition in 1972. Senator Kennedy doubtless is hoping that he will succeed Mike Mansfield as the Democratic leader in the Senate of the Montana Senator retires. It was the record made in this position by Lyndon Johnson which helped to mobilize support for him at the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles when he won the nomination for vice president in 1960.

The Kennedy name is deeply embedded in the Democratic party, particularly in New England and New York state, and the Massachusetts Senator has the financial resources to build up a big following throughout the country. It would not be surprising, however, if he concentrates on winning local support by giving aid to Democratic Senators and representatives who will be up for election in 1970 and 1972 — a sure way to gain organization strength within a national political party.

Nasser Confidant Sees War In Middle East This Year

By THOMAS B. ROSS

Chicago Sun-Times Special

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A confidant of United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser predicted yesterday that there will be a Middle East war this year.

The confidant, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said time has run out for a political settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

At the same time, two conservative newspapers here with good sources in the government reported that Lebanon has decided to allow the Soviet fleet to visit this traditionally pro-western country if Moscow so requests.

The papers — Al Nahar and Al Jarida — said the Lebanese cabinet made the decision Thursday in the latest of a series of crisis meetings on the Israeli commando raid on Beirut Airport last Saturday.

The reports appeared a few hours before the Soviet Union declared that its fleet was in the Mediterranean "in accordance with the interests of the Arab countries."

"These people," the Russians said, "consider the navy their friend and invite Soviet ships to visit their ports."

Al Nahar also reported that Lebanese Prime Minister Abdullah Yafi and Foreign Minister Hussein Oweini raised reservations about a visit by the U.S. 6th Fleet, which has been barred from Lebanon since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

They were said to have expressed fears that the U.S. ships might provoke a protest in view of U.S. support for Israel and the recent decision to sell 50 Phantom jets to the Israelis.

The 6th Fleet, understood to be operating in nearby waters, landed Marines here in 1958 to head off a pro-Nasser uprising.

Fal Gumhouria, another semi-official paper in Cairo, ridiculed speculation that the fleet was once again on the way to protect Lebanon.

"We do not think it is in support of the Arabs," the paper said, "but rather to reassure those who committed the crime of aggression."

In his weekly column, syndicated here and elsewhere in the Arab world, Al-Ahram's Heikal called on Lebanon to defend itself, contending that "no guarantee given by a big power can protect an Arab country against the Israeli designs."

He said Israel was making an all-out effort to crush the Arab guerrilla movement "because calculations by the Israeli government backed by calculations of U.S. and British intelligence, say that if the Palestinian resistance is not liquidated within the next six months, its liquidation in the future would be impossible."

Commenting on the Israeli reprisal that knocked out 13 planes at Beirut airport, Heikal wrote: "A peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis is not there any more. Perhaps it never was."

He said that a day before the Israeli raid Nasser told Sabry Hamadah, speaker of the Lebanese parliament: "There are those in Lebanon who think that Lebanon is outside the battle. I disagree with them in this. Half of the Lebanon is included in the map of Israeli expansion."

Charlie Edwardsen Pleads Eskimo Case on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON — An Eskimo named Charlie Edwardsen, wearing a shirt out no jacket, has been calling on Senators about the new Secretary of the Interior, Walter J. Hickel, now governor of Alaska. Edwardsen wears a shirt because he finds it hot in Washington offices, and of course the 30-degree weather here is a lot warmer than the 50-below weather at Point Barrow where he lives.

Point Barrow is the Alaskan town nearest to the North Pole. "It was named for Sir James Barrow of Lancaster, England, who financed an expedition to Alaska in 1828," Charlie explains. "Actually I live at Utkavik, a fishing village near Barrow."

Charlie Edwardsen is in Washington to protect Eskimo land from the encroachment of oil companies and to challenge the confirmation of Wally Hickel as Secretary of the Interior.

Edwardsen doesn't think Hickel, an oil and gas man himself, will be impartial regarding Eskimo land. Already Hickel has announced that he would remove the freeze which Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall has put on the distribution of land until Congress can act. Hickel indicated in Seattle last month that he would unfreeze government land right away without waiting for Congress.

"The north slope of Alaska is 58 million acres — about the size of Pennsylvania," explained Edwardsen. "It contains some of the richest oil lands in the world. Gov. Hickel has estimated the present oil strike at five to ten billion barrels, but other estimates of the surrounding area go up to 40 billion barrels."

"The Eskimo has been hunting and fishing on this land for hundreds of years," continued Edwardsen. "Then the white man comes along and wants to take it because of oil. All the white man thinks about is oil. It was the Eskimo who showed the white man oil seeps in 1923, and after that the Navy set aside an oil reserve."

Polar Bear Paradise
"The state of Alaska has 103 million acres given it by the federal government under statehood. And the state selected a block of land at Point Lay, down here," Edwardsen pointed to the map. "It's the best polar bear hunting in the world and also has excellent coal deposits — about 80 billion tons of coal in about 200,000 acres along the coast."

Polar bears, Charlie said, are getting scarcer in Alaska. "You hunt them by airplane," he explained. "So you can't lose. You fly around until you see a bear. If you're a bad shot, your guide will shoot it for you. It costs you about $2,500 per bear. The Alaskan big game guides make about $30,000 to $40,000 a year through this kind of hunting."

"Let Hickel have his oil," said Edwardsen. "but we want to collect a royalty on it when it's taken from our hunting lands. They'll take oil the way they took gold and there'll be nothing left. The white man makes a killing, and then he leaves. In Nome, there were 45,000 inhabitants in 1910. Now there are 2,500. It's one of the worst slums in the Arctic."

"There is only one white man on the entire north slope," explained Charlie. "He has a liquor store at Mead River, where he makes money selling whiskey to the Eskimos."

"Twenty years ago the Bureau of Indian Affairs sent a real estate man up here to tell the natives that they should file for mineral rights. But the Bureau didn't supply the man with any money for travel so he couldn't get around to tell the natives of their rights. As a result, out of the total 50 million acres on the north slope, the Eskimos have staked out only a few hundred acres. Yet he hunted here before. Let Erickson know how to row."

"When one Eskimo lady, Lucy Ahvakana, went up to her summer fishing camp on the north slope last summer, she found that Sinclair Oil had taken over her shack and was using her home for storage. Sinclair had built an air strip nearby, which of course will scare away all the game."

"How long must we sit by while creeping wolves sneak away our territory?" Charlie asked. "We have fought for Americans in foreign wars. It was an Eskimo who first raised the flag on two Jims. We believe the land should remain frozen under Udall's executive order until the Congress has a chance to act."

Doesn't Trust Hickel
Edwardsen does not trust the judgment of Udall's successor, Wally Hickel, when it comes to dividing up the land. He ticked off some of Hickel's associations with the oil people in Alaska, the fact that Hickel himself had until recently been chairman of the Anchorage Natural Gas Company, which is part of the Alaskan Institute of Houston, which in turn controls the Alaskan Pipeline Company.

In order to protect Alaskan natives in the far north, Edwardsen has organized the "Arctic slope Native cooperates with the Alaskan Federation of Natives, a group of about 60,000 Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts. They comprise about one-fifth of the population of Alaska."

He asked Charlie what kind of a reception he was getting from Senators regarding his attempt to defeat Hickel's confirmation as Secretary of the Interior.

"At Sen. McGovern's office they told us: 'We're not going to oppose him unless we can defeat him. We have a reclamation project in South Dakota we must put through the Interior Department.'"

Henry J. Taylor Says

Deficit Financing—Inflation

The new Nixon Administration rides in the face of a cost of living problem that only a full revamping of Federal outlays can stem. The situation being inherited is enough to shatter the nerves of an astronaut. The courage and skill required is downright monumental, but so are the stakes in our welfare and national security.

Coming to the end of the road, Arthur Okum, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, finally conceded that the government itself has been "the major cause" of inflation because it has been pouring so much deficit money into the economy.

Deficit financing — borrowing to spend more than the government's income — means inflation. As Washington continues to borrow more and more to pay its bills, the cost-of-living threat and other dangers multiply. The effect is epidemic, like typhus in milk. Who can keep up with these rises in the cost of living? And they cannot be stopped until the deficit financing is stopped.

Although tax collections taken straight out of our hides were at an all-time high in the past fiscal year, the official Federal deficit was $25.4 billion. Washington's outlays of all kinds far exceeded anything that the spenders of our money told the public they would spend.

In a bookkeeping performance that was as outrageous as it was illegal, the deficit was juggled to make the red ink look less red. Even so, the deficit was $4.6 billion more than President Johnson's red-ink forecast of last January, as if none of this had anything to do with us or the cost of living at all.

He and the rest of the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink seem as detached as if they were sailing on some fleecy cloud in the ghost of a trim clipper ship, looking down benignly and as indifferent as they are remote. But what of us?

As one result of all this, the cost of living hit another new all-time high on January 1. It is rising at a rate one-third faster than even the year previous. Like the Eiffel Tower, it just goes straight up. Politicians make political hay by boasting about the higher figures scrawled on pay envelopes. This is a pure bamboozle. The net take-home pay, and what you can get with it, is all that really counts in the family.

The rising cost of living is chipping away at everybody's pay at the record-breaking rate of nearly one-half percent a month. It wipes out — and more — the 1968 pay gains of 45 million workers who, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, got pay raises last year.

They gained an average $5.86 a week in wages. But of this, higher Federal taxes reduced the take-home pay of those with three dependents by $4.26, and the increased cost of living left them worse off than before.

The official consumer price index shows that it now costs $12.34 for every $10 worth of typical family expenses as they were before the New Frontier-Great Society took over. And food? At the rate its cost is going up and the dollar's value down, it will soon be cheaper to eat the money.

The value of the dollar that the New Frontier-Great Society inherited had dropped on January 1 to 81 cents. The average weekly pay check of $109.21 was worth $78.06 after taxes in terms of that inherited dollar's purchasing power, or only $70.85 for a single worker, who pays higher taxes. Unless the Nixon Administration can stem it, we will have at this rate of decline a $1 pay check worth 50 cents within exactly six years.

And what about the silently, oh, so silently, abused millions on millions who are trying to get along today on any kind of fixed income? These forgotten people will find their pension, annuity, savings-bank nest egg, life insurance benefits and their income from these reduced by about one-third in the same length of time.

There is no easy, and probably no popular way for the Nixon Administration to turn this situation around. But courage and skill and the right sense of responsibility are the only way out of this great gruesome nonsense.

Ray and the Council: Time for Surprises

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

City Hall is still wondering what Mayor Garraghan hoped to accomplish by attacking those aldermen who refused to vote for his budget and/or his plans for a new city hall.

When Garraghan's hand went up from the audience at Tuesday's Common Council meeting, most people figured he was going to pass out bouquets to the aldermen for voting for his pet projects.

However, he chose not to commend his backers but to criticize his foes. Ray used the word "phony" on those aldermen who did not vote for his budget.

Overlooked in the smoke and gas that followed was Garraghan's challenge to those aldermen to stand up and tell him where the so-called fat (by the mayor at the Dec. 26 public hearing) was in the budget. There were no suggestions.

And Ray probably knew there wouldn't be any. After all, the four who opposed the budget (Machione, Conlin, Sinsabaugh and Mancuso) had ample time to get specific during the debate on the measure.

They probably never had a chance. In order to get specific they needed two things, a line budget for 1969 and an audit of last year's budget, two things the mayor has.

Of course, the doors to the mayor's office are always open for those curious souls that want to check those items but Garraghan's hours are at the very best, irregular. Besides, Mancuso and Conlin were persona non grata after voting against Ray's city hall plans in December. Machione is in the same boat and Sinsabaugh criticizes the mayor a bit too much to rate favorite son status.

But then we still wonder why one antagonizes budding opposition. Machione was the only one who really made an issue of the budget. Mancuso was critical, true, but gave the impression that he thought it was a good budget overall and would have voted for it (as he had for two other Garraghan budgets) if it had been just a few dollars lower on the tax rate. Sinsabaugh and Conlin merely said "no."

The answer may well be in the balance of power between the executive and legislative branches of city government. The Democrats' 12-1 majority is nice to have on your side but it's the kiss of death if its against you.

Ray is well aware of this. He remembers how tough things were when it was 8-5, Democrat, last year. Right now, he's in the good graces of the party but that could very well change when nominations for mayor, alderman-at-large and city judge come up in the spring.

CITY HALL passed and it's unfortunate that Joe Epstein, who pushed so hard for it, couldn't have been a member of the Council that approved it. Joe missed by eight days.

We think that this issue will lie in limbo for the ten months predicted by Garraghan. That will bring us into October and no politician is going to approve a million dollar bond issue right before election. If the bond issue is approved by the Council, it'll probably take place in December.

Speaking of the cost of the hall, Garraghan made a left-handed admission, we think, when he said Tuesday night that he had no idea of what the cost would be. We have a file full of Garraghan estimates on the cost of a new city hall ranging from $400,000 to over a million dollars. We wonder if he knew what he was talking about then.

ODDS AND ENDS—We'd like to see some action from the Charter Revision Commission headed by Lou Smith. Lou has been in charge for at least six months with precious little news. Speaking of Lou Smith, full of Garraghan estimates on the cost of a new city hall ranging from $400,000 to over a million dollars. We wonder if he knew what he was talking about then.

mayorality candidate. Lou has his ups and downs, politically. He almost made it as an alderman-at-large candidate a year ago but then was taken to the cleaners by Jack Finch in an aldermanic race last year. Evidently Smith runs better city-wide than he does in his own backyard.

WE HEAR the boiler was installed at the auditorium two school days before the Council was Pucker, John Naccarato and ment.

asked to pay for it. As we remember, the Mayor caught a lot of flack from the Council when he ordered police cars last year without first getting the money from the aldermen.

PUCKER DAVIS took a bit of kidding from his former colleagues at Tuesday's meeting when the request for his trip to Westchester for building codes Ed's 32nd. Quite a record for the man from the water department, of course.

Finally, Ed Wetterhahn lays claim to the record for attending New Year's Day meetings of the Council. This year was when the request for his trip to Westchester for building codes Ed's 32nd. Quite a record for the man from the water department, of course.

Criticize Open Door In Job Corps Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large number of young people who weren't entitled to federal job training funds have been enrolled in a California Neighborhood Youth Corps program, say government investigators, who only last week disclosed similar abuses in Detroit's NYC project.

The General Accounting Office, auditing arm of Congress, said examination of the work-training NYC program in Los Angeles County revealed that some participants didn't meet federal criteria, and that the eligibility of still others could not be determined because of inadequate records.

Last week, the GAO reported that federal funds had been handed out by the Neighborhood Youth Corps project in Detroit to hundreds of youngsters, including high school pupils and some college students, who didn't qualify for the assistance. Grants to finance Neighborhood Youth Corps programs are allocated by the Labor Department, which also sets the eligibility requirements.

The NYC project is designed to provide job training for young people from low-income families, and is aimed especially at high school drop-outs. It also includes an in-school program which attempts to stop youngsters from dropping out of school.

Tarough last June, the Labor Department had awarded 4,800 contracts to agencies across the country under the 4-year-old program, obligating a total of $1 billion in federal funds.

Of this amount, said the GAO, $34.4 million went to the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency, official antipoverty organization of Los Angeles County, which in turn channeled money to cooperating organizations.

In addition to citing participation by ineligible youngsters, the 106-page GAO report said it found other weaknesses, including:

—Sporadic attendance or non-attendance by project participants in the supplementary education programs required by the Labor Department;

—Ineffective job development and followup services needed by participants to ensure meaningful permanent employment or additional training;

—Inadequate records kept by project sponsors on costs reimbursable by the federal government;

—Inadequate reporting by project sponsors in documenting non-federal contributions to the program;

—Weakness in the control over and accounting for federal contributions to the program.

The GAO report spotlighted six organizations which took part during fiscal 1967, four in the Out of School Program.

Youth Opportunity Centers were not using the Labor Department's eligibility criteria in screening applicants, the GAO said, but at the same time it noted that the rules, sent to the county antipoverty agency in October, 1966, had not been distributed to the centers.

Demo Line Forms at Right for Man to Face Goodell

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—There will be no shortage of candidates when Democrats get around to picking an opponent for Sen. Charles E. Goodell, Republican, appointed to fill out the term of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether Goodell goes before the voters next November or in 1970. No matter what the decision may be, Democrats are standing in line ready to make the race.

Democratic hopefuls are being influenced by, among other things, the fact Goodell, who comes from Jamestown, is an upstate and not well known in New York City where state-wide elections are usually won or lost. And, the thought of a senators salary being increased to $50,000 annually could have something to do with the large number of potential candidates so early in the game.

Last year, the state had its first statewide primary for the Democratic nomination to oppose Sen. Jacob K. Javits. It was a three-way race and resulted in a surprise upset victory for Paul O'Dwyer, a reformer. O'Dwyer lost to Javits in November.

The next primary could be almost a rerun of the 1968 affair, with only the characters changing.

O'Dwyer beat former Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick and Nassau county executive Eugene Nickerson in the primary. O'Dwyer was a backer of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Nickerson represented the Democratic state organization, has had his troubles getting warring factions together and aides report he has no intentions of getting into the squabble over the senatorial nomination.

"If it takes a primary to settle it," Burns said, "then we will have a primary. The party will support the winner."

Wagner's entrance into the contest might provoke the age-old fight between regular party leaders and the reformers. Before he left City Hall, Wagner had waged a concerted drive to oust Stanley Steingut as Kings county leader. And, unless there is an unexpected switch, Steingut will hold even a more important post in the party when the former mayor seeks the Democratic senatorial designation.

Steingut, in the past, has been a strong Kennedy man as well as a powerful member of the regular bloc.

Bingham, one of the first to announce his hope of opposing Goodell, is with the reform group but does have backing among some of the older members of the party. He was for Gov. W. Averell Harriman's secretary.

Sorenson wants to reshape the New York Democratic organization and has been active since the days of Robert Kennedy. He has worked with Burns.

Stratton must be considered the "darkhorse." Stratton was beaten for the Senate post by Kennedy at a state convention but, as a candidate for elective office, he has shown more strength than most Democrats.

He was a congressman from a predominately Republican district for several years. Then the GOP-controlled legislature reapportioned him into a new district where there are even more Republicans. But, Stratton continues to win and the party "won't be able to overlook him again," according to the congressman's friends.

New Post for Sahloff

Donald D. Scarff, General Electric Co. vice president and group executive for consumer products, has named Willard H. Sahloff, a native of Kingston, consultant to the consumer products group. Sahloff, a General Electric vice president, is currently general manager of the company's housewares division.

Succeeding Sahloff in that office is Cecil S. Semple, currently deputy division general manager. Both appointments became effective Jan. 6.

Sahloff will be responsible for special consulting assignments for the Consumer Products Group. He joined General Electric in 1950 as general manager of the company's radio and television department in Syracuse, and became general manager of housewares division in Bridgeport, Conn. in April, 1953. He was elected a GE corporate vice president in 1954.

A 1930 graduate of Rutgers University, Sahloff began his business career in newspaper work as advertising manager of the Perth Amboy, N.J. Evening News.

Leaving in 1943 to serve as a lieutenant in the Supply Corps, U.S. Navy, during World War II, he returned to Montgomery Ward and rose through positions as mail order merchandise manager, and in 1948, he was named general manager of the company's housewares division.

WILLARD H. SAHLOFF

Elected a charter trustee of Rutgers University in 1963, Sahloff served on the university's board of governors and is now a Rutgers alumni charter trustee. He has established an annually-renewed scholarship program at Rutgers. In 1958, he was awarded the "Loyal Son of Rutgers" pin for outstanding service to his Alma Mater.

He has been cited by the American College Public Relations Association for his contribution to higher education as the individual responsible for the "General Electric College Bowl" TV program sponsored by the Company's housewares division. He served as volunteer coordinator of the Advertising Council's national public service advertising campaign to aid higher education.

In 1955, Sahloff was awarded the annual distinguished service medal of the Joint Defense Ap. and the courage to pioneer 10 years ago has demonstrated League for his efforts on behalf of human rights, and, in 1960, he received the Delta Upsilon Meritorious service award.

In April, 1957, Sahloff was elected vice president and a member of the executive committee of the National Housewares Manufacturers Association, and in 1958, was named president for 1958-59. He served a second term in 1960. In 1959, he was selected as the "Housewares Man of the Year."

In June, 1963, he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Iona College, New Rochelle, and delivered the commencement address there. In the same month he was appointed to the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels. In March 1964, he was presented with the Medallion Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews for "Brotherhood."

In June, 1966, he became the recipient of the Special Medallion Award of the American Physicians Art Association for support of art, education and inter-faith understanding. In the same year, he was voted a special recognition by the American Council for Better

Broadcasts for the "General Electric College Bowl."

Congressman Jacob H. Gilbert of New York paid special tribute to Sahloff in the July 12, 1968 issue of the Congressional Record. The statement said in part, "the program that Willard Sahloff had the foresight and the courage to pioneer 10 years ago has demonstrated that learning guarantees security because the educational achievements of the stars of College Bowl assured them profitable and distinguished employment and their own opportunity to further the American dream come through education."

In February, 1967, he was presented with a gold Good Citizen, Ship Medal by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Later in the same month, he and the housewares division were winners of the Freedoms Foundation's "George Washington Honor Medal" award.

Energetic, ubiquitous, firm but fair, Sahloff is considered by industry leaders to be a great humanitarian, innovator, and entrepreneur, as well as a most astute merchant. After 35 years spent in the housewares industry, in July 1967, Business Week named him "Mr. Housewares."

Married to the former Margaret Burnett, who attended Douglass College, they reside on the Old Oaks Road, Fairfield, Conn.

Father Kelsch Dies

ESOPUS — News was to the United States and worked as a parish priest at St. Clements Parish, Saratoga Springs, St. Boniface Parish, Philadelphia, Pa. and in 1964, CSRR, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kelsch of Kingston.

Father Kelsch was born in Kingston and received his primary education at St. Peter's School. He graduated from Kingston High School in 1932 and from St. Mary's Preparatory Seminary, North East, Pa., in 1939. He was ordained a priest at the Redemptorist Seminary at Esopus in 1945.

Following his ordination, Father Kelsch did missionary work in Ponta Grossa, Aquidua and Campo Grande in Brazil, serving four years as pastor of the church in Campo Grande. In 1956, he returned Survivors include a brother Henry S. Kelsch of 50 West Pierpont Street, Kingston and a sister Mrs. Arthur Orlieb of West Hurley and several nieces and nephews in the Kingston area.

"Black Eye"

The Society for the Prevention of Blindness recommends for a blow to the eye, or a "black eye," you apply cold compresses immediately for about 15 minutes per hour. A black eye could mean serious internal damage to the eyeball and should be seen by a doctor.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Dora Sobsey Aronson

Mrs. Dora Sobsey Aronson, a former resident of Kingston for many years, died at North Miami Beach, Fla., early Wednesday. She had been a resident of Florida for the past 15 years. Her husband, Joseph Sobsey, died in 1942. Mrs. Aronson is survived by a daughter, Jean Kames of Catskill, two sons, Julius Sobsey of Chicago, Ill., and Saul Sobsey of Latham, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive. The funeral will be held at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home Inc., 15 Downs Street, Friday, 2 p.m. Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn of Temple Emanuel will officiate. Relatives and friends are invited. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Dorothy McManus

Mrs. Dorothy McManus, 45, of Route 28, Mt. Tremper, died Wednesday at Kingston Hospital. Born May 23, 1923 in Halcott Center, she was a daughter of Harold and Laura Gordon Wileman. Surviving are her husband, John; two sons, Ronald and Michael and a daughter Maureen, all at home; her parents, an aunt and several cousins. The funeral will be held Saturday 9:30 a. m. from E. B. Gormley Funeral Home, Phoenixia; thence to St. Francis de Sales Church, where at 10 a. m. a Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in Halcott Center Cemetery at a later date. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Mrs. Esther Genthner

Mrs. Esther Genthner, 74, of 92 Livingston Street, Saugerties died Wednesday at Benedictine Hospital. She was a life-long resident of Saugerties, born May 1, 1894, a daughter of the late Egbert and Minnie O'Bryon Craft. Mrs. Genthner was a member of Saugerties Congregational Church and a former member of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72 American Legion Auxiliary. Surviving are her husband, Albert; two daughters, Mrs. Ella Roosa and Mrs. Edna Hrdlicka; two sons, Henry A. and Albert R. Genthner, all of Saugerties; two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Holcomb of California, and Mrs. Edna Ricketson of Saugerties also nine grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, several nieces, nephews and cousins. Burial will be in Mt. View Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time Friday.

Raymond Grimes

Raymond Grimes, 65, a resident of Saugerties section of High Woods, from 1950 to 1959, died unexpectedly on Tuesday, at his home in Tucson, Ariz. He was stricken by a heart attack. Mr. Grimes is survived by his wife, Augusta; two daughters, Mrs. F. Robert Elting of First Avenue, Kingston, and Mrs. John Kinzelmann of Catskill; 15 grandchildren. Burial will be on the Pagoda Indian Reservation at Topawa, Arizona. Mr. Grimes was a Times Square traffic patrolman until 1959, when he was struck by a speeding car and seriously injured. Retired from the New York City Police Department, he and his wife decided to devote the balance of their lives to Catholic Missions. Going to Tucson, they offered their services to the then Bishop Daniel J. Gercke, who assigned them to the Solano Mission at Topawa. He worked as a jack-of-all-trades at the mission and was the local postmaster. Mr. and Mrs. Grimes had been married 38 years, being married in New York City in 1930. A former U. S. Marine Corps member, he served in the Nicaraguan Rebellion in 1927. Mr. Grimes was a native of Missouri. In Arizona Mr. Grimes taught Indian boys carpentry and other constructive trades. Funeral arrangements are in complete.

The youngster who delivers your Kingston Daily Freeman is learning fundamentals of business. Like most other merchants, the carrier's income depends not only on the number of customers but just as important the payments collected. Papers are bought at a carrier rate and sold to you at retail. The difference between the carrier rate and retail is profit. But the carrier makes a profit ONLY when you pay regularly and in full!

When your Freeman carrier comes to your home to collect, please try to be ready with the amount owed. Your carrier would appreciate it if you would tell him when you are going on vacation. Pay the youngster promptly so he does not have to make a return call. After all that is extra work ... at NO extra profit.

As youngsters in business, carriers deserve our respect

B'nai B'rith Women Send Presents To Levi Hospital

Mrs. Harold Monashefsky, president, Zephaniah Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, has announced that Hanukkah gifts were sent by the Chapter to the patients at the B'nai B'rith Leo N. Levi Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Mary Hershoff and Mrs. Fred Shaymow were the chairmen in charge of collecting and sending the gifts.

The new B'nai B'rith Women's Children's Center of the Hospital was dedicated on October 13. The young patients are all victims of rheumatoid arthritis a crippling disease that has so far eluded the discovery of a cure. There are 16 million arthritis sufferers in the United States, more than 300,000 of them children.

When the disease hits children it hits hard, and a hospital stay for them is usually in terms of months or years, rather than days or weeks. For this reason the dormitory-like atmosphere of the B'nai B'rith Women's Center is especially welcome, for her the youngsters can blast their record players, play cards, paint, help each other with their homework, share their ups and downs, and generally enjoy more freedom than was possible when they were in the same part of the hospital as the adults and restricted to their rooms.

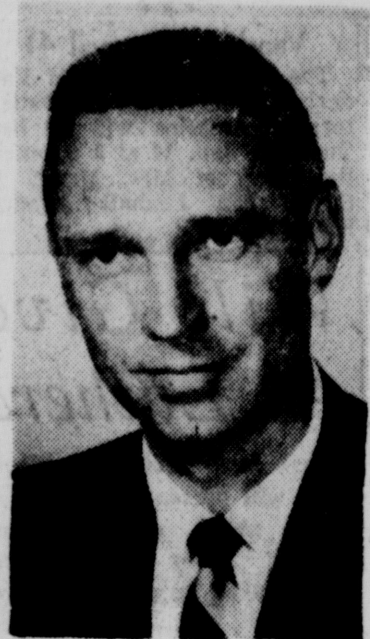

Their teacher says the children, whose physical condition limits them to beds and wheelchairs, have perked up considerably in the two months since they moved into the new quarters. The teacher, whose salary is paid by the hospital, works with the school board to provide accredited courses for the young patients. Like everyone else on the staff of the Leo N. Levi Hospital, the only hospital in the U.S. devoted to the treatment of arthritic diseases, she works hard to provide an atmosphere of love, and teach them to accept their handicap and learn to live with it.

Mrs. Monashefsky stated that Zephaniah Chapter is "proud to be associated with this wonderful humanitarian effort."

PROCLAIMS TEENAGE CONSUMER DAY—Raymond W. Garraghan, Mayor of the City of Kingston, seated second from left, has proclaimed Monday, Jan. 13 as Kingston Teenage Consumer Assembly Day. The day has been designated in recognition of a program to be given on that day in Kingston High School by the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, the principal, teachers and Distributive Education students at KHS and the New York State Commerce Department Woman's Program. Speaker Named for Secretarial Seminar; Set for January 20th

GEORGE D. CRAIGMILE

"Time Is Money" will be one of the subjects on the agenda of the January 20 "What Makes Us Tick" secretarial seminar which will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, sponsored by the local Colonial Valley Chapter of The National Secretaries Association (International).

This topic will be discussed by George D. Craigmile, Controller, IBM's Systems Development Division's Kingston Laboratory. He will delve into the meaning of time personally and to the company for which one is employed, how it can be wisely spent and point out ways for saving time for the more important assignments.

Mr. Craigmile joined IBM in 1960 as a financial planner at the San Jose, California Development Laboratory. In local NSA chapter.

NICHOLAS BROWN of Atwood Road, Stone Ridge, was guest of honor Saturday, Jan. 4, at a gala celebration in observance of his 80th birthday. Approximately 75 friends, neighbors and family members attended the cocktail party and buffet. A highlight of the evening was the showing of photographs taken during the last 80 years, including an aerial view of Vastogirardi, Italy, where Mr. Brown was born in 1889. Mr. Brown and his wife are still actively engaged in operating a small country tavern, The Hilltop, Atwood. They are the parents of seven children: Mrs. Thomas (Edith) Mallaney, California; Mrs. Charles (Anna) Isusi, Long Island; Mrs. Granville (Marguerite) Lockwood, Mrs. Charles (Philomena) Link, both of Stone Ridge; Delia Brown, New York; Frank Brown, Scarsdale; Nicholas Brown Jr., Massachusetts; the couple also has 11 grandchildren. Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here's my hint for an improved bed tray.

Take an ordinary bridge table, open TWO legs on one side and allow them to rest on the floor. The side of the table with the two legs still folded is placed over the bed.

If one cares to have his pillows piled up behind his back and wants to eat sitting up at the head of the bed, slip one or two pillows under the table to make it level and give a firm support for the dishes.

There are many people who don't have bed trays or who aren't prepared for a family member who becomes ill.

This saves buying a bed tray and it's most satisfactory for those who want to lie in bed to work, play solitaire, etc., or who are too ill to get up. Also for those who are well enough to sit up and put their legs off the side of the bed and want the table over their lap.

If one is sitting on the side of the bed, they can put a pillow over their knees, leaving their feet on the floor, and put the side of the table with the closed legs on the pillow.

Marie Motson

This would be just wonderful for little children to put their toys and crayons on too. Think how much more room they'd have when the eventual chicken pox, measles and mumps come along—and they will. I know!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I am a bachelor, and my apartment, with all of its trials, tribulations and problems, causes me much more upsets than my job.

I read your column like crazy. Would you tell me and my bachelor friends, just how we can cope with ALL these problems?

Bachelors Club

Are you kidding? As you by now know, new problems come up every day when keeping house. I don't think ANYBODY can anticipate them all.

Just keep reading this column and our darling readers will cover most of them.

Or... marry some nice girl. At least half your problems would be solved. Eh?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you want to make gravy and find that you're out of flour and cornstarch, please don't panic. Pancake mix can be used for thickening stews and making delicious gravies.

When boiling potatoes and frying meat, first remove the meat (when done) from the skillet. Next, drain the potato water into the skillet until it's one-quarter full. Then add the pancake mixture to the potato water and the meat grease in the skillet.

Stir one-quarter cup of pancake mix and one-quarter cup of cold water together until smooth.

Stir this for two minutes and it's ready to eat. The result is an excellent smooth and tasty gravy.

Women Executives — Their Problems

Peggy Bendel, who is editor of a newsletter issued periodically by the Woman's Program of the Department of Commerce, wanted to find out if the image of women executives has changed. Questionnaires were sent out to various outstanding women asking about their personal success in the workingworld, about advice they would offer to women and girls about to enter, or re-enter, the job market.

Mrs. G. G. Michelson, who is vice president in charge of Personnel at Macy's in New York, credits her success to "... my husband's encouragement, my preparation and training — and an interested boss." Many other members agreed with her, praising a husband who understood their desire for a career, and a boss who was interested in giving a woman a chance to prove her capability.

To sum up, it would seem that hard work, an understanding husband, a good education, an encouraging boss, persistence, good timing, luck and hunger are the right ingredients for those of you who would become executives.

Imagination was an important ingredient in Mrs. Janet Wolff's achievements. Mrs. Wolff, who is executive vice president of William Esty Company, Inc., in New York, says her success was due to "being able to sell my ideas, and an extra measure of good luck."

"Hunger" was the unique answer of another member of the Woman's Advisory Council. Hunger for what? "In the beginning for money, because working was essential. Later for accomplishment, recognition, the desire to contribute, to aid, to expand—for myself and others."

For Dr. Karen Gillespie, professor of business education at New York University's School of Education and Institute of Retail Management, the right educational degrees and background and her interest in people have helped her advance in "the field I dreamed of entering but never thought I could attain. From the fourth grade on I was dedicated to teaching, and stumbled into this on the higher educational level."

"Insurance is a field where women are accepted," says Mrs. Olive Deuel, owner of a Sidney, N. Y. insurance agency. Mrs. Deuel is an active member of the New York State Business and Professional Women's Club and a frequent visitor to the Kingston area. "I have worked long hours, and I have also tried to take advantage of educational opportunities," Olive tells us.

"Motivation, education and tenacity" was the reply of one member, and "hard work, continuous study and imagination" was the prescription of another.

All the members of the Women's Council are outstanding in business, the professions or community activities, and are appointed by the Governor as advisors to the New York State Commerce Department Woman's Program.

Whatever their career goals, they agree on one point—the formula for success is a highly individual one, depending on the chosen field and the person herself. The key for each woman is learning how to make her individual formula work—a key the Council members seem to have found with ease.

Another key—an essential one—is being at the right place on the right day at the right time. "Lady Luck" opens a lot of doors.

And if you are a working woman who hasn't yet found your niche—take heart from some past experiences. More than half of the successful women today have achieved that success in a field different from the one they had originally planned to enter, or in which they held their first jobs. Some examples: aviation to career guidance; actress to advertising; accounting to insurance; concert pianist to educator.

"We've come a long way," according to Agnes T. Leen, assistant attorney general in the New York State Department of Law. Most of her colleagues agree with her, though several of them prefer to qualify their answers to the question "Do you feel the climb up the career ladder is easier for a woman today?"

Several of those who expressed a qualified "yes" gave such answers as: "up to middle management level, yes. From that point on, it's as hard as it ever was."

Someone else put it more bluntly. "Top management is generally as male-oriented as ever. The lower levels are quite open—the top is not."

Have to agree with her.

FOOD OUTLOOK FOR 1969

Food shoppers may get some relief from rising prices in 1969, but it is not likely to be very great. Retail food store prices for the year just ended were up by 55 per cent. The coming year may find increases dampened some, but prices should still rise from 2 to 4 per cent, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist. Much will depend on the new administration and its policies. Demand for food at home and away from home will likely continue to be strong. At any rate it behooves the wise shopper to try to trim costs in 1969.

Consumers can look forward to larger supplies of a number of leading foods in the first half of 1969. Among these are beef, pork, broilers, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and fresh citrus. Supplies will be below 1968 for eggs, turkeys, apples, potatoes, lamb, and veal. The decline in dairy production may level off early in the year.

The meat outlook — The red meats — beef, pork, lamb, and veal — loom large in the food shoppers budget, taking about one-fourth of the consumer food dollar. Beef and pork are the main items, and both will be in larger supply during early 1969. The amount of beef marketed may exceed a year earlier by about 10 per cent, while pork marketings will be up by 5 per cent. Veal and lamb supplies, however, will continue to decline through the early part of the year. This certainly adds up to ample supplies of meat.

Poultry products outlook — Broiler production is currently running 3 to 5 per cent above a year ago. Production will continue greater than a year earlier throughout early 1969. Egg production is down from a year ago and will remain so for the next several months. Turkey marketing during early 1969 will be off sharply, and cold storage holdings are also down. Shoppers can expect much higher prices for eggs and turkeys than a year ago when prices were low.

Prices for canned and frozen fruits and vegetables rose about 10 per cent in 1968 because of short packs for many key items. The packs this season have been much larger particularly for vegetables which will set a record. This may lead to some reduction in retail prices for selected processed fruits and vegetables. Shoppers will find abundant supplies of canned tomatoes and tomato products, snap beans, sweet corn, lima beans, and beets. Frozen vegetable supplies will be large or larger than a year ago. Increases are expected for asparagus, spinach, sweet corn, and broccoli. Among fruits, expect more canned peaches, pears, and fruit cocktail. The frozen fruit pack is expected to be up somewhat over a year ago.

The citrus crop has been forecast as much larger than a year ago, but a recent freeze may have caused some damage to the crop. At the present time it is not possible to indicate the size of the citrus crop. Winter vegetables in Florida were apparently badly damaged, and since Florida is the largest supplier of fresh winter vegetables in this area, prices will go up. There are fewer apples and potatoes in storage than last year.

Even though many important foods are expected to be in good supply during the first half of next year, this may not mean lower retail food prices. Many items will also increase in price. Then, too, the costs of marketing food have consistently risen over the years. This trend will continue in 1969. Consumer incomes will continue high, resulting in a strong demand for food. All this adds up to higher retail food prices for shoppers.

Distaff Digest

DAR, Wiltwyck Chapter

"Wiltwyck Chapter's American Heritage," was Albert Barnes' subject for a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Monday, Jan. 6. Outlining in detail the various furnishings in the Chapter House and in some instances mentioning their monetary value, the speaker at its conclusion presented to the members a complete list of the most historic and noteworthy items in booklet form for its records.

Among reports given by chairmen was the announcement by Mrs. Eugene Hoffman of the American Indians Committee that boxes for the Christmas holiday were sent to the St. Regis and Onondaga Reservations.

Elected delegate to the Continental Congress for April 14-18 in Washington were Mrs. Adam H. Porter, and alternates Mrs. Ralph E. Post, the Misses B. Isabel Herdman, Jacqueline F. Post and Martha A. Freer. Meetings of the board of trustees and the Incorporate Society were held prior to and following the chapter meeting.

Supper hostesses were the Misses Elmer P. Resseguie, Harold F. Smith, the Misses Florence E. Tappen, B. Isabel Herdman.

Recitation of the American Creed concluded the evening. Mrs. Floyd N. Ellsworth, Regent, conducting.

Vanderlyn Council 41

The regular meeting of Vanderlyn Council No. 41, Daughters of America will be held Tuesday, Jan. 14 at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Muriel E. Short, 359 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston.

Will Give Concert At Lutheran Church

Mrs. Jane Brough of Woodstock will present a concert of sacred music, operatic arias, German lieder (song), and spirituals at Immanuel Lutheran Church, 22 Livingston Street, Kingston, at 8 p. m. Saturday, Jan. 11. There is no admission charge, refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Mrs. Brough, a soprano soloist, teaches music at Immanuel Lutheran School. She studied voice with Madame Alice Gerstl Duschak at Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore, Md., where she was the youngest student granted permission to enter the conservatory. She holds a bachelor's degree in music education from the University of Maryland.

The soloist has presented musical programs throughout the Eastern United States, and is currently a member of the Mid-Hudson Madrigal Singers of Woodstock. She has taught music privately as well as in public and parochial schools, and was director of Redeemer Church School in Bowie, Md., and director of that church's choir before moving to this area.

Her debut recital was held in Barker Hall, Washington, D.C. She sang in the Premier English translation performance of Milhaud's opera, Le Pauvre Matelot (The Poor Sailor), which was reviewed favorably in Metropolitan Opera's Opera News.

Mrs. Brough has also been soloist with the Baltimore Municipal Concert Band in their

St. Joseph's Women's Guild

A card and game party is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 17 at 7:30 in the social hall of St. Joseph's Church in New Paltz. The program will be sponsored by the Women's Guild of the parish. Refreshments will be served and tickets are available from members or at the door the evening of the program. Those attending should have their own cards or games.

Chairmen are Ruth Cahill and Mary Liguori. Serving on the awards committee are Sue Whitton and Mary LeFever.

YW Women's Club

A meeting of the Women's Club of the YWCA has been called for January 9 at 12 o'clock in the YW, 209 Clinton Avenue. The annual Dish 'N Dollar luncheon and silent auction is planned for the occasion. The fellowship of the Women's Club is offered to anyone interested. The YWCA is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Jaycee Meeting Called

Division 2 of the Jaycees will meet January 10 at 8 p. m. in the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, Saugerties. Hosts will be the Saugerties Jaycees. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Joseph Vartanians, 278 Broadway, Port Jervis.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Rose Reynolds, who will give a demonstration on beauty and skin care. The division meeting will be held after the demonstration, and refreshments will be served.

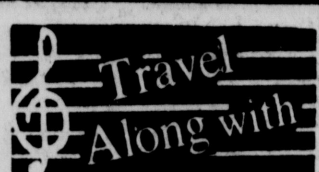

MRS. JANE BROUGH

summer series and on television. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternal organization for women.

Concert accompanist will be Walter Hopkins of Stone Ridge. Mrs. Hopkins is choir director and organist at Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine, and accompanist for the Ulster County Community College choir.

The contest Saturday will include sacred selections by Bach, Handel and Mendelssohn, German lieder by Brahms and Schubert, and an operatic aria by Puccini in addition to spirituals.

There is no admission charge, but an offering will be taken to benefit Immanuel Lutheran School's music program, according to Arlan Birkman, principal.

PAT SCHULTZ

When traveling for the first time, many of us are confused as to what to take for clothes. Unless you're headed for a resort or sea voyage, leave your swim and sportswear behind and concentrate on taking a minimum of practical, conventional, conservative attire. No one expects you to travel with many clothes. Your form of dress should be equivalent to that of the middle or upper classes of the country you are visiting. In a poverty stricken region, it must approximate that of the local upper class; in a prosperous state, that of the middle class. Whatever you do—Don't Over-do it!

With all the little pointers that have to be taken under account when embarking on a trip, it is wise to seek out some sound advice. At KINGSTON TRAVEL CENTER, INC., 73 Albany Ave., Tel. Kiwis Zero in on Careers as Wives

By JOYCE GABRIEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) —
Kiwi is the name of a New Zealand bird that can't fly. It's also the name of the American Airlines organization for retired airlines stewardesses. Unlike the New Zealand bird, these Kiwis can still fly, but only as passengers.

A flock of Kiwis, seated around a table, casually discussed past experiences. The warmth and charm of these women came across and one could easily imagine them offering "coffee, tea or milk" at the next pause in the conversation.

The ex-hostesses discussing their flying days were Sue Berman of Englewood Cliffs, N.J.; Christine Doll of Plandome, N.Y.; Corey Pillersdorf and Ann Gilmartin of Manhattan and Marilyn Schubert of Middletown, N.J. Why does a girl become an airlines stewardess?

"If you want to travel and do it for nothing, I think being a stewardess is the best way to do it," said one.

A girl could probably see most major cities in the United States and Canada if she had a mind to, because stewardesses can choose the places they fly to. As Marilyn put it, "Each girl gets to bid where she wants to go for whatever reason — whether it's a fellow she's dating or she wants to get a suntan one month or she wants to visit family."

A stewardess also can trade days off with another girl so that she can accumulate as many as 10 days a month for an impromptu vacation.

Most only work four days a week, leaving plenty of time for hobbies, part-time jobs and special interests between flights.

Ann attended college while she was flying — she bid her trips around her school days. Girls with professional training, such as nurses and teachers, can do part-time work in their fields during their time off. Other jobs available to stewardesses between flights include working as salesgirls in department stores and modeling.

Of course, flying isn't all glamor and good times.

"When you're on the plane," Corey noted, "it's good, hard work. Things have to be done fast and well — it's not like an office where you can say, 'I'll do this tomorrow.'"

Everything has to be done according to schedule during the flight.

All the girls nodded in solemn agreement. Then Sue added, "It's when you're off the plane and you find yourself in New York or California, that's the glamorous part."

Again, there were the nods of agreement, but the solemnity was replaced by nostalgia.

Most stewardesses marry well, mostly professional men. Sue commented, "Our husbands all seem to be good providers and we live very well. Also, the divorce rate among stewardesses is very low."

If visions of in-flight romances come to mind, you can forget them. One of the cardinal rules of the stewardess trade is: "You have to figure that all your passengers are married men, because nine-tenths or them are." So most stewardesses steer clear of traveling Romeos.

Still, the majority of flight hostesses credit flying with helping them to find good husbands. They meet their mates at parties in cities all over the country, where they are introduced by mutual friends.

Once married, stewardesses like to stay that way — and they work at it.

"Having been a stewardess," Ann explained, "you've been exposed to the man's problems and you can understand him. You know that you're not going to let your husband go off so much that he becomes accustomed to it."

In addition to understanding their men, stewardesses learn to enjoy them — they've been out in the world, they've been exposed to adventure and glamor. They're used to living well and they like it.

Sue, discussing why stewardesses are more successful at marriage than girls who have never been on their own, claimed, "Women who just get married don't pay enough attention to their husbands. I think once you've been a stewardess, you're a swinger all your life."

Feet back on the ground, Kiwis manage to keep active working on various charity projects. The girls of the Manhattan Chapter of Kiwis work with and for brain-damaged children at the Kingsboro Medical Center and sponsor a luncheon fashion show every year.

The flying days are over for the Kiwis but, as Chris put it, "Once a stewardess, always a stewardess," and they manage to bring the same spirit of adventure that brought them to flying to anything they undertake.

CLASSICS PREVAIL in the current spring collections being presented to the nation's fashion press corps in New York. One of Mollie Parnis' dreamiest classics is a long white organza with a gathered skirt, slightly belled sleeves and a rosy satin sashed waist. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

We have our own contribution to make to the complaint, so recently featured in the newspapers, that car repairs are likely to be incompetent or careless or generally bad. Back in October our windshield in front of the driver began to cloud up. After deliberation on the part of the household mechanics, the heater was said to be to blame. Of course October was mild and we did not use the heater but no matter, the heater it was, or might have been.

So after a couple of weeks of keeping a damp cloth handy to wipe off the windshield, we took the car to the garage. Yes, indeed, it was the heater, they told us. It needed to be taken out, cleaned off, and generally fixed up. A rather expensive job, more than fifty dollars, but labor, as we all know, is high these days.

By the time we got the car back November had set in and we needed the heat. The heater, however, did not work. Cold air blew out instead of hot, and I took to carrying a blanket to wrap around my feet. The poor driver could not do this.

Another household mechanic took a look and discovered that the carpet had been put back in such way that the heat blew under it instead of on our feet. We fixed it. The heater still did not work very well. After a while it did not work at all. We returned the car to the garage, which meant another two days without it. They were sorry about the carpet and they discovered—excuse it, please—that the mechanics to whom they had sent the car had forgotten to tighten an important screw, or something. They promised that by the next afternoon all would be made right and since it was the outside mechanic's fault there would be no charge.

COFFEE FLAVORINGS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Mustard and essence of ambergris are among the many flavorings used in coffee since it first was served as a beverage over a thousand years ago, says the Pan-American Coffee Bureau. By the early 16th century, the Turks were adding spices, such as cinnamon and cloves during the brewing process, and ambergris essence at sea time. Coffee drinkers elsewhere used such varied flavorings as sugar, candied, honey, crushed ginger, vanilla or mustard.

The next day we went for the car. We are not a two-car family but we do have a pick-up truck. So when the car is being repaired, the ancient and honorable truck has to take its place.

The car was done and we were assured, firmly and confidently, that the heater was working beautifully. We had another errand to do so we drove a few blocks before going home. The heater did not work. This time the temperature was six degrees and a heater was not just a child's whim. We needed it badly.

Back to the garage we went, the master of the house made a few irate remarks, we left the car, and said we would be back in an hour. When we returned there were more apologies. They didn't know how it happened, but actually they had neglected to tighten up one end. I believe that was it, although deficient. They swore that this time it would work.

So far it has. But the whole episode, involving several days without a car and several trips of more than twelve miles each, was a first-class illustration of the stories in the papers about careless or incompetent mechanics. I told the head mechanic this and he merely grinned. But is is no laughing matter.

Our famous American know-how, like our car heater, seems to have a screw loose somewhere.

Synagogue News

Temple Emanuel

A birthday Sabbath family service will be conducted at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Friday 7:30 p.m. Children in the Temple Religious School with birthdays in December and January will be honored. They will receive a blessing from Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn and a small gift from the religious school.

Children to be honored are Steven Beckerman, Eric Selinger, Scott Ratner, Mitchell Katz, Paul Feldstein, Ilene Ronder, Deborah Cohen, Judy Dawson, Alan Kirschner.

Also, Heather Sachs, Dale Wolfeld, Leslie Marcus, Steven Hall, David Levine, Steven Mones, Laura Newman, Barbara Kamen, Julie Paige, Rickey Kamen, Terry Gartner, Wayne Friedman, Betty Winkler and David Zimet.

After the services the Religious School committee headed by Mrs. Robert Kurland will sponsor the Oneg Shabbat.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., every Saturday at 9:30 a.m. and at sundown, every Sunday 10 a.m. and every weekday 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. All members of the Jewish faith are welcome to participate in these services.

This Friday 8 p.m., Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, the spiritual leader of the congregation, will conduct the services and deliver his sermon, entitled, "Come Let Us Take Counsel." The theme will be based on the History of Antisemitism from the time of the Egyptian Pharaohs, as found in the Bible reading of this week. The liturgy will be chanted by Cantor David Katchen. The yahrtzeiten of the coming week will be read and the Mourner's Kaddish will be recited. The Oneg Shabbat will follow the services.

At the Saturday morning services the liturgy will be chanted by Cantor David Katchen, and the Scriptural reading will be summarized by Rabbi Schectman.

This Saturday, the Bar Mitzvah of Robert King, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley King, will be celebrated. The services will begin at 9:30 a.m., and the Bar Mitzvah boy will be called to the reading of the Torah. The Bar Mitzvah ceremony will follow, with the boy's receiving the rabbi's blessing and Bar Mitzvah lesson, and the gifts of the Sisterhood of the congregation, the Talmud Torah, the USY, and the Bar Mitzvah certificate will be presented by representatives of these organizations. A kiddush by the parents of the Bar Mitzvah for all the congregation present will be served in the social hall after the services.

The USY, the youth group of the congregation, will hold its regular meeting and social in the library Sunday 7 p.m. The adult education class in the Great Ages and Ideas of the Jewish People will continue to meet every Tuesday 8 p.m. in the library.

The Sisterhood of the congregation will meet on Wednesday evening, Jan. 15, for a Torah Fund program, which will consist of a champagne hour at 8 p.m., followed by the showing of a film, entitled, "The Bush Was Not Consumed," and a report by Mary Scher and Jean Semiloff on the National Women's League Convention they recently attended. The Torah Fund is for the benefit of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

The Talmud Torah of Kingston will meet on regular schedule this week at the School Building of Ahavath Israel.

Few Defectors

During the Berlin blockade by the Soviets in 1948, when more than 1.5 million tons of foodstuff and other vital supplies were flown to the city by the western powers, only 4 per cent of the population in the western sector defected to the east, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

County Clerk Joins in Caution to the Snowmobilers

Owners and operators of snowmobiles, also known as snow travelers have been cautioned by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany that the Vehicle and Traffic Law requires that these vehicles must carry certain equipment to be operated on the public highway.

The county clerk noted that last year many owners and operators of snowmobiles didn't know that they were required to register them at the motor vehicle bureau in the County Office Building. Registrations are required for snowmobiles that are operated on public roads.

Snowmobile owners are advised to immediately register their vehicles to avoid prosecution for infractions of the Vehicle and Traffic Law.

Spada reminded snow traveler enthusiasts that it is a traffic infraction for an operator of a snowmobile to permit any person to attach himself or a sled, trailer, coaster or any such vehicle carrying a person and an approved rear red illuminating the number plate carried on the rear.

If snowmobiles are operated on public highways between one-half hour after sunset or one-half hour before sunrise, they must be equipped with one of the following: a white or amber lighted lamp in front, one lighted red lamp on the rear, and one light reflecting the number plate carried on the rear.

These vehicles, if driven on public highways, also must be registered. If a vehicle, fully equipped, weighs 200 pounds or less the fee is $2. If it weighs more than 200 and not more than 550 pounds, the fee is $5. For vehicles weighing more than 550 pounds, the fee is $1 for each 100 pounds or major fraction thereof, Tofany said.

Another amendment to the Vehicle and Traffic Law exempts persons who engage in the business of buying, selling or dealing in snowmobiles or snow travelers from being required to hold a dealer's license.

Congressman Fish Backs Reform Over Electoral College Voting

WASHINGTON — "The need for a definitive electoral reform cries out. Sovereignty should be in the people," declared Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. today when he spoke concerning this week's House and Senate challenge to a North Carolina elector's vote for George Wallace.

In calling for electoral reform Fish said, "When we think of the chaos which might have resulted had no presidential candidate received a majority of the electoral votes in 1968, the need for electoral reform is patently urgent.

Cites Correct Way

"The system needs change. The correct way is by Constitutional amendment and time for such and amendment is now."

Referring to the question raised as a result of the challenge to the elector: Does Congress have the power to alter a vote of a lawfully certified elector because he disregarded the people's will? Fish stated as follows:

"National attention will again be focused on a serious weakness in our electoral system and I believe this is good. Change should come about by a Constitutional amendment and not piecemeal by what is at best a questionable assertion of congressional power to alter the vote of a qualified elector."

Different Question

"...Granted the development of custom and usage, quite a different question is presented over the power of Congress to act in this case.

"It was pointed out in debate that only a Constitutional amendment can change the constitutional independence of an elector. Furthermore, nothing in the 1887 law suggests Congress had taken upon itself the power to change an elector's vote because he disregarded the people's will. In fact quite the contrary is evident from the legislative history of the law."

Bus Driver Training Program to Start on Monday

A bus driver training school will be conducted in the Kingston Consolidated School District, James E. Tobin, assistant superintendent of schools for Pupil Personnel and Transportation, has announced.

The training program will start Monday, Jan. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Kingston High School under the direction of Mrs. Audrey Carpino, Transportation Supervisor, Andrew Aurigemma, Assistant Transportation Coordinator and Lawrence Plog Jr., Driver Education Instructor.

All contractors and drivers who have not previously attended a driver training program Commission, Local Police Department and school officials, a part of the program.

$9,100 Grant to New Paltz for Sewer Job

WASHINGTON — A construction grant for a sewage facility in the Village of New Paltz has been announced by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. in the amount of $9,100.

The 28th District representative received word of the grant from the Department of the Interior. Approval of the grant now makes it possible for the village board to authorize construction if it desires.

First Annual Banquet

Supervisors', Legislators' Event

The first annual banquet for Ulster County Supervisors and Legislators and their wives will be held Saturday, Jan. 25, at Oehler's Mountain Lodge off Route 28, Town of Hurley. The newly formed Ulster County Supervisor-Legislators Association has incorporated in its By-Laws that each year a banquet be held for ex-Supervisors and County Legislators and their wives, primarily to promote good fellowship and honoring the wives for their patience and understanding of local officials.

Legislator Clarence Raichle, chairman of the banquet committee said that a letter and return card will be mailed to each member of the Association as well as to ex-Supervisors who have served on the County Board of Supervisors to verify attendance. He estimates that approximately 100 persons will attend the affair.

Castro Still Has Not Delivered Utopia

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Ten years after when, in the midnight darkness, Fidel Castro succeeded Fulgencio Batista as Cuba's new dictator, he still has not delivered to the Cuban people the utopia he promised.

Yet on his 10th anniversary in power, when he could promise Cubans only that 1969 would be a "year of 18 months of hard work," and announce new sugar rationing, he still could draw cheers.

The years brought no great change in Castro. He still is the bearded revolutionary, second only to Red China's Mao Tse-tung in his determination to further the violent overthrow of capitalism, especially among his Latin American neighbors.

The Soviet Union and the East European bloc contribute an estimated $1 million per day to Cuba's support. Yet he has declared he feels closer to

Ellenville Chief in Hospital

ELLENVILLE—This village's police chief, Abe Rand, is currently being treated for a heart attack at Ellenville Community Hospital.

It was pointed out, however, by Dr. Alvin Greenberg, Rand's physician, that the chief may not actually be suffering from a coronary thrombosis or "max-imum occlusion" but only angina, a much less serious, or "minimal occlusion."

Rand was stricken late Tuesday night with stomach pains that reached out and up his left arm.

He was rushed to Ellenville Community.

"He (Rand) is being treated as if he is having (a coronary)," said Dr. Greenberg, but he added that this was more in the nature of a precaution.

Chief Rand is undergoing cardiogram tests and it is expected that a full report will be available by Friday.

A coronary thrombosis occurs when a clot appears in a blood vessel, cutting off nourishment to the heart.

Angina is described as a mere "spasm."

A spokesman at the hospital listed Rand's condition as "fair" and added that he was resting comfortably.

Ward Correction

A 7-piece dinette featured at $79.88 in a recent Montgomery Ward store advertisement in The Freeman was listed incorrectly. The sale price of $79.88 was for a 5-piece set.

Barry's Speechwriter Elaborates on Shift of View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater's chief speechwriter in the 1964 presidential campaign—the man who wrote the famed "extremism" speech—now speaks approvingly of the New Left. "Technically," says Karl Hess, "I am an anarchist." Hess, who helped draft both the 1960 and 1964 Republican Party platforms, said in an interview that, "I take my stand with the anti-authoritarians, and so does the New Left."

"I'm opposed to authority, to state authority at every level and in every area," he said. "I think people should have the absolute right to their own lives and the control of them and I thought this is what the Republican Party stood for. I think it's turning out not to be the case."

As Goldwater's No. 1 speechwriter, Hess was assigned to draft the Arizona senator's speech accepting the GOP nomination. The final version contained a phrase—"extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice; moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue"—that was to be widely interpreted as a challenge to Republican moderates who opposed Goldwater's conservative views, and had fought to deny him the nomination.

Hess said he still regards Goldwater as "the greatest American political figures," and indeed he was back in Arizona this year helping his old boss to regain a seat in the U.S. Senate. He also insisted that his thinking on extremism hasn't changed, and that his progression from the Political Right to New Left involved merely a return to his basic philosophical position—"libertarianism."

"This is one of the reasons I find many of the statements and actions of SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) very satisfying. Because they're following the precept of the Declaration of Independence."

That precept, said Hess, is old colleague in the cause of conservative politics, columnist Ralph de Toledano, put out a Washington news letter. It should be noted that de Toledano, who wasn't present, has shown no sign in his writings that his convictions have altered.

Elaborating upon his own change of viewpoint, Hess argued: "There used to be a very strong libertarian tradition on the right" even to opposing imperial foreign policies on the ground that "you can't have a state so powerful that it can go rampaging around the world without having a state so powerful that it can coerce people at home."

"The rise of the Soviet Union, however, introduced this really fanatic anticommunism . . . so that a lot of people, including myself, said: 'Look, because of the threat of Soviet Communism we've got to forget all of this cute people.'"

This position, said Hess, "says that it opposes the state and it does, theoretically, but . . . when it comes to anticommunism, the conservative position is that the state should have every power in the world, up to and including the right to execute people."

Ancient Rites Performed Over Body of Harvard Coed

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Vice President J. Boyd Britton, may have been beaten to death with an archaeological stone that had been given to her as a gift.

Today, four persons were to take lie detector tests voluntarily to clear up slight discrepancies in their statements about the girl's final hours.

They are James Humphreys, 27, of Toronto, Miss Britton's boy friend; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell, neighbors of the slain girl, and a fourth person whom police refused to identify.

Detectives said evidence found in the apartment where 23-year-old Jane S. Britton's body was found on a blood-soaked bed led Harvard anthropologists to believe the murderer was "a sick man."

Police also theorized on Wednesday that Miss Britton, daughter of Radcliffe College

Violation Charged

Charged with violation of parole, Allan N. Canoles, 24, of Route 2, Box 466, Saugerties, was arrested Wednesday on a warrant by Kingston detectives and a State Parole officer.

Police Caution Residents on Clearing Walks

Residents of Kingston today were cautioned by Deputy Police Chief Julius Glassman that a city ordinance provides that sidewalks throughout the city must be cleared of snow and ice and violators will be subject to misdemeanor charges and summoned to court.

Glassman said that the ordinance sets forth that snow and ice shall be removed from sidewalks within 12 hours after a snowstorm abates.

Police have been assigned to make a survey of sidewalk conditions throughout the city and note violators. Glassman called upon the public to cooperate with authorities in order to avoid facing charges in court.

It was noted that many sidewalks in Kingston are in a deplorable condition due to accumulated snow and ice. This makes pedestrian travel extremely hazardous, authorities commented.

Fire Destroys Laundry Firm In Po'keepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE — All fire companies in this city were ordered out at 1:54 a.m. today to battle a 2-alarm blaze that destroyed the one-story concrete block building occupied by the Courtney Laundry and Dry Cleaning establishment at 186 Washington Street.

The second alarm sounded at 2:03 a.m. and Arlington Fire Dept. responded with Truck 2 to assist at the scene.

Capt. John Van Norstrand said the fire erupted in the northwest corner of the building and spread rapidly through the entire building and up through the roof. When firemen arrived, the captain said, flames were shooting high in the air and dense smoke filled the area.

Fire Chief Irving Merrick was in command of the fire-fighters. All off-duty paid firemen were ordered back to duty. There were no injuries reported.

Officials said the origin of the blaze, which completely destroyed the main office and plant, was not determined.

Fire units reported back in service at 5:20 a.m.

Jansen Gets New Assessor Term in Hurley

TOWN OF HURLEY — Town of Hurley meetings will be held the fourth Monday of each month meeting alternately at Hurley and West Hurley, according to town clerk Raymond Crosswell.

The next regular board meeting will be Jan. 27 at the West Hurley Firehouse.

It has also been reported that Clarence Jansen, assessor, who was named to his post last fall replacing Percy Osterhout, who resigned, was reappointed for another term at an organizational meeting held earlier this week. Among the constables who were also appointed was Philip Sinagra.

Jackie's Pension, Protection Ends

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Aristotle Onassis' Secret Service protection and pension as the widow of President John F. Kennedy ended when she remarried, the treasury department has confirmed.

A spokesman said the Secret Service protection ended automatically under law. He said Mrs. Onassis wrote the treasury one week after her wedding Oct. 20 and asked that her $10,000 a year pension end as of Oct. 1.

Police Issue Summons for Car Violations

Owners of motor vehicles throughout the area have been cautioned by police agencies to check the expiration date of the inspection sticker on their cars to avoid citations for violations.

Kingston police issued summonses to eight persons Wednesday for driving cars that had not been inspected. The summonses are returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Charged with having no inspection stickers were Arthur J. Sullivan, 40, of Stone Ridge; Edward D. Crawford, 35, of Deer Park; Boris M. Piastro, 48, of R. D. 4 Box 178, Saugerties; Salvatore Bellio, 21, of New Mexico; Arlene R. DeTemple, 28, of 103 Downs Street and Dorothy Margon, 34 of Brooklyn.

Police also cited Freda Lifskin, 56, of 159 Hurley Avenue, for driving an unregistered car, failure to produce a registration certificate and operating without a license. Martha Zidro, 67, of 10 Amsterdam Avenue, was cited for having no inspection proof and being an unlicensed driver.

Buffalo Man Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 53-year-old Buffalo man was killed Wednesday when a space heater started a fire that swept through the dining room of his home, police said.

They added that Carl Hynarowski may have fallen against the space heater and knocked it over, starting the fire.

He lived at 124 Young St.

Gun Explodes In Man's Hand In Ellenville

ELLENVILLE — A Town of Wawarsing man was reported in fair condition today at Ellenville Community Hospital, where he is under treatment for gunshot wounds he suffered when a double-barrel muzzle loading shotgun exploded as he was target-practicing with a friend.

State Police said John Marshall Oakes, 65, of North Main Street, this village, was accompanied by Cleon Kelly of Irish Cape Road, at the time of the mishap.

A report of BCI Investigator Thomas Searles and Trooper Oscar Gray, noted that the two men had been target practicing on Kelly's property yesterday afternoon. Oakes reportedly fired one barrel of the shotgun and Kelly turned to walk towards his home.

Suddenly, the right barrel of the shotgun, held by Oakes discharged in an explosion and authorities said. The blast shattered Oakes' left hand and numerous pellets hit his face.

Parts of the shotgun were found 25 feet away from the spot where the gun exploded, according to Trooper Douglas Dymond.

Oakes was taken to the hospital here and underwent emergency treatment for removal of the pellets. Surgery was performed on the badly shattered hand of the elderly man, authorities said.

Newburgh Man Nabbed on Gun, Betting Charges

NEWBURGH — James McClinton, 39, of 43 Gidney Avenue, was in custody here today facing charges of possessing policy slips and possessing a revolver, according to State Police.

McClinton was arrested Tuesday by State Police BCI officers and Detective Howard Baxter of the city police. Arraigned before City Judge Charles Raskosky, the defendant was committed pending a hearing. Attorney Seymour Greenblatt appeared with the accused man, who was taken into custody following an investigation.

Suicide Ruled In Napanoch

NAPANOCH — A ruling of suicide was given by Coroner Arthur Chipp in the death of James H. Reeves, 57, who was found at his home, Main Street, Napanoch, Tuesday.

Chipp said death was due to self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Mr. Reeves was senior storekeeper at Eastern Correctional Institution at Napanoch. Born in Moultrie, Ga., March 16, 1911, he was the son of John T. and Valeria Gaines Reeves. He was married at Newburgh Oct. 16, 1943, to the former Wanda Galick.

Surviving are his widow; three sons, John N. of Wappingers Falls, Sgt. Mark Allen Reeves of Udorn, Thailand and Robert M. Reeves at home; his mother, Mrs. John T. Reeves of Moultrie, Ga.; two grandchildren, Connie Lee and John M. Jr.; several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at the Loucks Funeral Home, Ellenville, Friday 1 p. m. The Rev. George H. Winn, pastor of Ellenville Reformed Church will officiate. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Montgomery.

Correction officers from the Institution will hold services at the funeral home tonight 7:15. Friends may call tonight 7 to 9 o'clock.

Greene Inn Gutted by Fire

PURLING—Hampered by ice that formed on hoses and ladders firefighters from Cairo and Leeds fire companies today battled a 2-alarm fire that gutted the Castle Cave bar and restaurant in this Greene County Community.

Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers from Leeds and local fire officials launched an investigation, after firemen theorized that the fire might have been of suspicious origin.

The first alarm was sounded shortly after 6 a. m. and Cairo fire units responded. Mutual Aid regulations were invoked and Leeds fire companies were dispatched to the scene to assist. Catskill fire units covered up for Leeds during the height of the blaze.

The large frame building is occupied on the first floor by a bar and restaurant with living quarters on the upper floors.

Firemen experienced some difficulty on the way to the fire due to ice-coated pavement that created a hazardous condition for the apparatus.

BCI Investigator T. J. Martin and Trooper A. J. Peterson of Leeds were still investigating the origin of the fire early this afternoon with local fire officials.

Continues Plea On Charge of Store Theft

TOWN OF USLTER — Accused of shoplifting at Caldor's store on Route 9W, Michael Christoforo, 30, of 54 Yeomans Street, Kingston, continued a plea of innocent Wednesday before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Christoforo was granted an adjournment until Wednesday Jan. 15 and bail of $500 was continued. A jury will be selected for the trial, it was reported.

The man was arrested Dec. 19 by Security Officer Herbert O'Brien, who accused the defendant of taking a tape recorder valued at $29.88 from the store. Troopers Robert Molloy and Douglas Lane participated in the investigation.

White marble from central Colorado was used in building the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Board in Esopus Acts On Buildings and Cars

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN — PORT EWEN — The disposition of empty derelict structures and junk cars on private property was discussed and action to alleviate the conditions was taken at Wednesday night's Esopus Town Board meeting.

Called Hazardous
Building Inspector De Vall Dunbar reported that in addition to those buildings already disposed of there were several others that should be demolished because they are hazardous. The board authorized the building inspector to advertise for bids to have them demolished. In accordance with the Building Code, the costs of the demolition will be added to the property owners tax bill.

The board decided that a local law was required to have abandoned junk cars removed from private property and Charles Gaffney, attorney for the town was instructed to draft a local law for that purpose. Under the proposed local law the property owner would be billed if it is necessary for the town to have the junk cars removed. When the local law has been drafted a public hearing will be held on the proposal. Supervisor George H. Freer said the board discussed the possibility of adopting the state retirement plan for town employees, involving about 30. A representative of the state will be asked to meet with town officials and employees to explain the program and costs to employees and the town.

The Board of Assessors reported that applications for 50 percent tax exemption for those over 65 and otherwise eligible, who have previously received this exemption, have been mailed. Those who have not previously applied may secure applications at the Town Clerk's Office in Port Ewen, or may phone the office and an application will be mailed to them. The deadline for filing is in May.

Supervisor Freer reported that the citizen's committee working on the landfill project for the town is still checking various sites, but have not filed a report.

Modernization of the electric power panels and wiring in the Town Hall was discussed. It was agreed that an electrician should be called to set up a cost study for the project.

The supervisor said there have been complaints about the delay in installing a signal light at the Esopus Avenue railroad crossing. The Public Service Commission ordered the Penn-Central Railroad to install the light last summer. Supervisor

Massey Hearing Is Adjourned

TOWN of KINGSTON — Preliminary hearing for George Massey, 25, of 67 West Street, New York City, who was arrested Jan. 4 by State Police Sergeant Richard Dempsey, was adjourned Wednesday for one week by Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan.

Massey, who was held in $10,000 bail, was charged with grand larceny (auto theft), possessing dangerous weapons and having a driver's license authorities believe was forged. Sgt. Dempsey said he stopped a car driven by the defendant, later found a .22 caliber Colt automatic and a blackjack in the vehicle.

Troopers said the car the man was driving had been reported stolen in Yonkers.

FILES LIBEL SUIT — Actress Julie Andrews has filed libel suits totaling $6 million against two movie magazines, including one which linked her romantically with Sidney Poitier. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Women Plead Guilty on Drug Charges

The young women arrested Sept. 1 on drug charges as the result of an undercover probe at the Soundin, a music festival at Shultis Corners, Town of Saugerties made two appearances in County Court Wednesday with their attorney A. F. Turco Jr.

At the criminal calendar call in the morning Joanne Sadler, 20, and Sharon Ann Walley, 22, both of New York City entered pleas of innocent at arraignment before Judge Raymond J. Mino. Miss Sadler was charged in a separate indictment with criminally selling a dangerous drug, third degree; criminal possession, third and fourth degree. In another indictment, both were charged with criminally selling a dangerous drug, third degree. Miss Walley was charged separately with criminal possession, third and fourth degree.

Both decided to change their pleas and returned to the afternoon session of county court. The entered pleas of guilty to attempt to sell a dangerous drug, third degree.

County Judge Mino set sentencing for seven days after probation reports have been received. Bail was continued. Assistant District Attorneys James H. Fisher and Joseph Traficanti appeared for the prosecution.

County Investigator Thomas F. Mayone charged the women were peddling a new type of LSD, called brown spot at $5 per spot during the festival held Aug. 31 at the Pan Copeland Farm on Glasco Turnpike. Mayone said they had only a small amount of LSD on their person when arrested. It was reported that there were from 2,000 to 3,000 persons attending the music festival during the August weekend.

Ex-Salon Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — James P. Duffy, a former U.S. Representative and State Supreme Court justice, died in St. Ann's Home Wednesday at the age of 90.

Duffy represented Rochester as a Democratic congressman from 1934 to 1936 and served on the Supreme Court in 1937. He also served on the State Liquor Authority and the State Probate Commission in the 1930s.

Majestic Clarifies

Supervisor George Majestic of Gardiner, referring to an article in yesterday's Freeman, told the practice of the town board since 1959 to have free and open discussion at its meetings.

Likening it to "an old-fashioned town meeting," Majestic said that residents attending the meetings are free to speak to and question the board on all matters including the minutes of the meeting.

Uganda and Syracuse Split; Africans Claim Interference

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — East African studies program at the University of New York today broke off all ties with Syracuse University after efforts by an official at Syracuse to get President Milton Obote to interfere with the outcome of a pending sedition trial.

Under a $250,000 grant from the Carnegie Corp., Syracuse has been conducting a three-year program in undergraduate psychology at Makerere University in Kampala. The Syracuse end was directed by Marshall Segall, Syracuse's acting director for East African studies.

The U.S. Embassy said the these unfortunate developments," Tolley said. Sedition cases against Rajat Neogy, founder and editor of the magazine "Transition," and Abu Mayanja, an opposition member of Parliament, started Thursday with former British Solicitor General Sir Dingle Foot representing Mayanja and former Uganda Attorney General Godfrey Binaisa leading the prosecution's case.

Neogy and Mayanja were arrested Oct. 18 and placed in detention under Uganda's emergency regulations a month later.

Both pleaded innocent to charges of sedition arising from publication of an article appearing in "Transition," a liberal bi-monthly widely circulated outside Uganda with a readership in the United States and Britain. Neogy's wife Barbara, of Yonkers, N.Y., has been living in Kampala since his detention.

"The People," ruling party daily, commented in an editorial today on the Syracuse request for Obote's interference in the trial on Neogy's behalf.

"The telegram sent by the Syracuse University is an interference with independence of the administration of justice in our country," the editorial said.

"To urge the president to en-the trial . . . is to solicit the president to influence a court case."

"Transition" was not banned after Neogy's arrest, although no editions have appeared since the October issue, which came out a few days prior to his arrest.

Charges against the two defendants and Consolidated Printers, Ltd. allege that publication of part of a letter in the October issue of "Transition" had a seditious intent of bringing the president of Uganda into hatred or contempt or exciting disaffection against him.

On Dec. 8, Foreign Minister Sam Odaka said the detention of Neogy had aroused "international fury against Ugandan leadership" and had presented Neogy as a courageous Ugandan ready and willing to criticize his own government.

But Odaka said the British High Commission had informed him Neogy carried a British passport and thus was entitled to full British consular protection.

"Uganda has learned a great lesson through this misuse of intellectual honesty whereby a man poses as a Ugandan when it suits him and his masters to meddle in our internal affairs," Odaka added.

East-West Mayhem Shuts Down Colleges

Militant student confrontations with police caused shut-downs at colleges on both U.S. coasts. Spreading violence on California campuses led to injuries and arrests. Negro students seeking to enforce black power demands seized the building housing the main telephone switchboard at the Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., forcibly closing down the university's communications system. Four persons were injured and dozens arrested Wednesday in clashes with police on two California campuses. A teachers' walkout at San Francisco State college spread to nearby San Jose State and threatened at least three other state campuses. Queens College in New York was ordered closed Wednesday and today to prevent threatened violence. Wednesday was also another violent day for strife-ridden San Francisco State College. Student pickets shouted down police demands that they open a corridor through a picket line and police wedged into the crowd through a rain of rocks, bottles and sticks. At the height of the violence, a student hit by a streetcar was taken away in an ambulance. A San Francisco Chronicle reporter said he was hit, knocked down, kicked and arrested by police as he covered the disturbance. He also said he observed police brutality in a patrol wagon taking him to a command post. Charges against him were later dropped.

THE UN-PEOPLE — Someone once called them "the un-people." They are approximately 30 people who, by accident and some design, went into Communist China — and haven't come out. Some have been sentenced for "crimes." Some are under house arrest. Some merely are listed as "missing."

'Missing' Live in a Void

LONDON (UPI) — Someone of Reuters News Agency who once called them "The un-people."

They are approximately 30 persons who, some by accident and some by design, went into Communist China—and haven't come out.

Some have been sentenced for "crimes." Some are under house arrest for obscure reasons. Some merely are listed as "missing."

But all of them, at least those still living, exist in a void.

By taking away all the things these persons had been used to, the Chinese have "de-personalized" them.

Most, if not all, of them have little communication with their captors. They have even less freedom of movement, being kept for years in the same small rooms with the same starkly plain decor. For many, reading matter has been restricted to a language they do not understand.

Perhaps the best-known of the current "un-people" is Anthony Grey, 29-year-old correspondent of Reuters News Agency who was put under house arrest 17 months ago, apparently in retaliation for the imprisonment of Chinese newsmen in Hong Kong.

How is he living? A British foreign office report of a meeting Grey had with the head of the British Peking mission, Percy Cradock, said:

"He appeared in reasonable physical shape so far as could be determined. He did not look thin, but he was pale and suffering from a head cold."

"He said that he had had chest pains for the past three or four months. He had asked for a doctor on Nov. 13 and the doctor examined him with a stethoscope and said he might have bronchitis. Grey asked for an X-ray, but was told this was unnecessary."

"He is desperately short of reading matter. It seems that earlier this year (1968) he had been able to go upstairs from time to time to fetch his books, but since August he has been told he must ask for the books and list the titles he wants. Since he does not remember the titles, he has had no new books."

"He is allowed the People's Daily (official Communist newspaper) but can only read one or two Chinese characters. He does get the Peking Review, an English language monthly."

"He is allowed to write a letter to his mother and his girl friend each month. These letters are kept by the Chinese News department for a month before being mailed."

The release of Grey, and certain others seems to hinge on the reciprocal release in Hong Kong of the Chinese. And even if the Chinese were released, there is no guarantee Grey would be freed—and there is absolutely nothing Britain could do if the Chinese failed to keep any promise.

Known prisoners from other countries include thirteen Japanese, six Americans, two West Germans, one Italian and one Belgian.

The way in which a person can be in favor with the Chinese one day and sudden disappear the next is graphically illustrated by the case of Briton Eric Gordon and his family.

Gordon, a 37-year-old journalist, was in China voluntarily and working with the Foreign Language Press, a Peking company which puts out, among other things, English versions of the "Thoughts of Mao."

Gordon seemingly was happy with his stay in China. His wife liked the country, too. And his son, Kim, 12, became almost "Sino-fied."

Then the Gordons' contract was up and they made plans to return home, sending a letter to their parents in England accompanied by a snapshot of Gordon and his son outside a Peking pagoda and adding the family hoped to get a ship at Hong Kong.

That was 14 months ago. They have not been seen or heard from since. There has been no word of charges, no indication where they might be. Just silence.

UCCC Stops Westchester for League Lead

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Coach Mike Perry of Ulster County Community College made a couple of moves for last night's game against Westchester CCC that would have qualified him for tar and feathers earlier in the basketball season.

But they paid handsome dividends, as the Senators beat back the Westchester challenge to take over sole possession of the Mid-Hudson Conference lead with a 5-0 record.

The first move — and the most surprising — benched early season sensation Jerry Moss.

The second move was a gift of intuition — starting 6-foot Larry Trippodo.

Trippodo, a 4-point average man up to last night's game — played a brilliant first half and finished the game with 15 points.

Fine Comeback

Moss, who looked like a very lonely 18-year-old languishing on the bench in the first half, wasn't called upon by Coach Perry until only 13:10 remained in the game. He responded magnificently, hitting his first three tries from the field, and teaming with Ray Lindhorst to break the game open in the second half. He had 7 for 10 for 14 points.

An elated Coach Perry had high praise for all three stars of last night's victory.

"I was very pleased with Trippodo's fine first half and another great second half by Ray Lindhorst," said Perry. "And maybe we've got Jerry Moss squared away for the remainder of the season."

Lindhorst drilled 19 points, 14 in succession in the second half. He made six straight baskets and finished with 20 rebounds, tops on the team.

Somewhat obscured by the Trippodo-Lindhorst-Moss production, Marshall O'Neil just led the team with 21 points, hitting 7 for 11 from the field and seven straight free throws.

Braia Scores 24

Westchester's Ron Braia performed as predicted, leading both clubs with 24 points. Brian Davidson added 19 and Charles Headley hit 13, but the Westchester club never mounted a serious threat against the Senators.

Hitting 53 per cent (21/39), UCCC moved methodically and somewhat uninspired except for Trippodo to a 47-38 halftime lead. UCCC led from 10 to 12 points throughout most of the half.

Moss entered the game with 13:30 left and drilled three quick baskets. At 14:15, Ulster widened its leads to 15 points (63-48). Moss' deuces extended it to 69-51 with 11:30 left. Pough fouled out at 11:30 and Gary Kirkwood at 8:50 but UCC led 72-60 at the time and was in firm command of the game.

Davidson's jumper and Moss' fourth basket made it 74-62. A Braia deuce followed by Lindhorst's shot off a Larrier pass and Moss' fifth basket zoomed UCCC ahead 78-66 with 5:30 remaining. At this point Moss was five for eight and moving the ball in the spectacular fashion he can when clicking properly.

Break Game Open

Lindhorst and Moss combined for the coup de grace in the next couple minutes after Braia converted two free throws. Lindhorst went under for 80-68. Roger Howard picked up a free throw, then Lindhorst and Moss hit one-two for 84-69 with 3:18 remaining and the rest was purely anticlimactic.

Coach Perry withdrew Trippodo from the game with one minute left to play and the modest crowd gave the Gloversville freshman a rousing ovation.

Negro Ballplayers

Negroes have been playing professional baseball since 1885, when the Cuban Giants of Long Island were organized. The Negro National League was set up in 1920 and the Negro Eastern League in 1921, inaugurating a "world series" in 1924.

"This fella said he had written Red Auerbach for a tryout but hadn't gotten one and how he was sure he could make it because he could play basketball just as good as any of us," Russell related. "Anyway I told him to come and before we started practicing on the court we had our hour of running and calisthenics like we always do. We hadn't even begun working with the ball yet when this fella went over in a corner and threw up. He left without bothering to try out. Before he did, though," laughed Russell, "he told Bailey Howell 'it sure doesn't look this hard on television'."

tion for his splendid performance in his first game as a starter.

Coach Perry opened the game with Kirkwood, Lindhorst, O'Neil and Trippodo as an-nounced, then went to Tony Pough for his fifth starter.

SIDE BARS: Braia, who has a feathery touch from the outside, was 10 for 19 from the field and 4/10 from the charity stripe. Thirteen of Lindhorst's rebounds came in the second half.

IN ORBIT — The basketball seems to be in orbit, far beyond the reach of (43) Wayne Morgan and (23) Ron Braia of Westchester CCC and (50) Marshall O'Neil of UCCC in last night's action at auditorium. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Arnie Looks Just Great

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Arnold Palmer has reached the magic Jack Benny age—39—but he looks just about as fit as he ever has in 15 years as a pro golfer.

"The King" just might start the 1969 PGA tour by winning the 72-hole, $100,000 Los Angeles Open starting today at Rapcho Municipal Course.

After shooting a 35-34—69, two under par, in Wednesday's pro-amateur prelude, Palmer said, "I feel good. I'm down to 180 pounds. Last year at this time I weighed 195 and I was too heavy."

The 69 in 69 was not good enough for low individual honors in the pro-am. Another veteran, 38-year old Gene Littler was low with a red-hot 35-30—65 on a chilly, overcast day. Par for the course is 36-35—71.

Palmer and Littler have plenty of competition from both veterans and sharp youngsters in this, the first PGA tournament of the year, and the first event since the PGA made peace with the touring pros. The pros formed a splinter group called APG—for American Professional Golfers—but smoked the peace pipe when the PGA gave them bigger representation on its ruling committee.

The field of 144 here includes such big names as defending champion Billy Casper, 1968 top money-winner; U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino; Al Geiberger, the former national PGA titlist; Frank Beard; Dave Stockton; masters champion Bob Goaly; George Archer; Bob Rosburg, and Art Wall.

The foreign contingent includes two sharp-shooting Australians, Bruce Devlin and Bruce Crampton, and Britain's Peter Townsend, and Tony Jacklin.

UCCC by one percentage point—54 on 28 for 53—but was badly outplayed and the numerous turnovers in the second half, UCCC, on the other hand, reduced its turnovers to 14—a drastic slice from the 27 against Manhattan.

The teams went into the game with identical 4-0 conference records and the setback was only the second in 13 starts for the downstaters.

UCCC takes on Middlesex CCC of New Jersey Saturday at the auditorium. There is no line on the team but it is reported to have beaten Mercer, N. J., which last year represented Region XV in the NJCAA finals.

Sample: Jets Are Better—And Means It

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Johnny Sample, the New York Jets' tart-tongued corner back, isn't exactly the guy you'd send out to settle the Middle East crisis.

He's no diplomat at all. Any notion he has inside him pops right out. He doesn't hold anything back. He tells everything. But everything.

If he was beaten badly a couple of times in his last game, as he was by Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff, he'll come right out and tell you so, which he does.

If he thinks the NFL black-balled him from getting a job in the league after he played for Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Washington which he does, then he tells you, that too.

And if Johnny Sample, who played with the Colts' previous two world championship teams, thinks the Jets are a better team than the present Colts, he doesn't care what anybody says, he tells the world the Jets are better than the Colts.

"I'm a little outspoken," he says.

That's a big lie.

Johnny Sample is plenty outspoken.

"I'm gonna have my say," he lets you know, "I wouldn't care who it was. If it was the president of the United States I'd have to say to him what I think, and what I think now is that we're a better ball club than Baltimore is. I think all of us feel that way."

"You read so much about the AFL being below par and the NFL being superior. We know when the ball game is over people will say the AFL hasn't arrived no matter what we do, whether we beat 'em or whether we lose, 14-13. We just gotta' win. The other two (Super Bowl) games weren't close contests. But we've got something to prove. I've never had a drink of any alcoholic beverage in my life ... not even any of that champagne when we beat Oakland not long ago ... but I've told all the guys I'll take my first drink after we win the Super Bowl game."

Sample makes no bones about his deep-seated dislike for the NFL. Not the Colts, but for the owners and officials in the NFL.

"They black-balled me out of the league," says the 31-year-old Philadelphia who has been playing pro ball 11 seasons, the last three with the Jets. "They tried to prevent me from earning a living. They tried to take the bread out of my family's mouth. You can't like people like that."

Blackball is a strong word in any league or any language and when you ask Johnny Sample if he has proof, he says yes and offers this illustration, which isn't exactly proof but is something to make him feel the way he does.

"After I drew my release in the NFL I called one coach and he said he'd love to have me but he told me the owners said 'hands off,'" explains Sample.

Contract Problems

"Everywhere I went it was the same story. The thing got around. It was no secret I had contract problems with the Steelers and with the Redskins. I remember getting a phone call when I was with Washington. The guy calling didn't say who he was and the first thing he said to me was that I was making too much money as a defensive back. I said, 'who the hell is this?' he said 'This is coach (Otto) Graham.' He had just taken over as the new Washington coach. I said 'are you making too much money as a coach?'"

For sure, Johnny Sample isn't the man to settle the Middle East crisis but he could be the man to figure prominently in Sunday's big game. If it comes out the way he figures and the Jets win, he might call it a career.

"If we win," he says, "there's nowhere more for me to go. I've made all-pro in both leagues and I will have played with the world champions in both leagues. There'd be nowhere to go but down, so I might hang 'em up if we win."

Yeshiva Keeps Jinx on New Paltz 74-72

NEW PALTZ — Coach Doug Sheppard of the State University College basketball Hawks has been insisting he would like to retire.

Today could very appropriately be the day, following the Hawks' back busting 74-72 loss to defense-minded Yeshiva University of New York City Wednesday night.

It all happened in the last six seconds of play and it marked the fourth time this season the now 2-6 Hawks have been beaten by one or two points. The record says they have dropped four contests by a combined total of six points — 1 pointers to Potsdam and Brockport — to Oneonta by 2 in overtime and Yeshiva by two.

Yeshiva, trailing in the second half after a 43-32 edge at the half, fell behind the Hawks by three points in a rousing second half and 3:00 left to play deadlocked the score at 72-72.

The Broken Play

There was no scoring in the next two minutes, 15 seconds. Then with 45 seconds left to play, Yeshiva got possession, controlled the ball until six seconds remained when Stu Poloner took a shot that missed. The ball ricocheted crazily off the rim over the hands of a flock of outstretched hands about 25 feet up the left side of the court.

At this point, Richie Salit, a 17-point average man, grabbed it and took a long, desperation shot that swished through the hoop. Before State could get the ball in play after the shot the game was over.

"It was a backbreaker," said Sheppard, "because I thought we had played good defensive ball during the game."

"They were a fine, deliberate ball-control team," he went on, "with a solid defense and a good, fast break."

Sheppard indicated he wasn't too happy with a "lot of foolish mistakes" the Hawks made.

Poloner Scores 24

Poloner led Yeshiva with 24 points. Salit added 17 and Ray Adoff added 15. They are Coach Bernard (Red) Sarachek's squad and proved it last night.

Jim Leonardo popped 25 points for the Hawks, 12 from the foul line. Sheppard's big man — 6-foot-8 Steve D'ane — turned in one of his better stints with 15 points but high-scoring Pete Kane dipped to 13, below his 20-point seasonal average.

The embattled Hawks are poised for two rough ones in the next few days—Saturday night at Stony Brook and Tuesday night at home against Philadelphia Textile, a nationally ranked small college quintet.

Smith and Lutz Upset By Australian Tandem

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Two Australian unknowns, Bob Giltinan and Syd Ball, scored a stunning upset in the Victorian Open tennis championships Wednesday when they ousted Americans Scan Smith and Bob Lutz at, 6-3, 6-2.

Smith and Lutz, a pair of Californians considered the best doubles team in the world, proved no match before the seemingly tireless Australian youngsters in blistering 102 degree heat.

Lutz, in particular, was off his game, missing many easy shots and muttering to himself through most of the match. Last month, he and Smith teamed to give the United States the clinching match in the Davis Cup Challenge Round by winning the doubles competition.

Giltinan and Ball followed up their shocking win by carving out a 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 quarterfinals victory over fellow Australians Ray Keldie and Terry Addison. Keldie and Addison were the No. 4

Australian seeds and were runners-up for the Aussie National doubles title last year. American hopes in the doubles competition were upheld by Arthur Ashe and Charles Pasarell who teamed for a 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Australians John Cooper and Dennis Wright.

U.S. Davis Cup captain Donald Dell and his Russian partner Tomas Lejus lost their second round match to Aussie veterans Neale Fraser and Frank Sedgman 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5. Fraser and Sedgman were later eliminated in the quarterfinals by Aussies Bill Bowrey and Ray Ruffels 6-4, 6-4, 9-7.

In women's singles competition, Mr. Margaret Court of Australia beat countrywoman Lesley Hunt 6-2, 6-1 and Aussie Kerry Melville defeated Mrs. Leslie Bowrey 6-4, 6-3.

Port Jervis Grapplers Blank Kingston High Team, 56-0

Port Jervis high school's wrestling team demolished Kingston 56-0, last night, putting them on the right road to retaining the DUSO league title.

The Red Raiders scored nine pins, two decisions and a forfeit in sending the inexperienced Maroons to their second straight defeat.

Port coach Al Wilgard commented, "We have some boys who have been bouncing around the mats for a couple of years. Kingston was more inexperienced than I figured. We really can't judge anything from this match." Wilgard continued, "we'll have to wait until we face Liberty Friday."

Five Port men put away their opponents within two minutes. Rich Inella stopped Dave Salom in 1:15, 129 pound Art Trovei pinned Ron Shiels in 1:08. In the 177 pound class Dennis Simmons, of football fame, eliminated Charles Kaune in 1:13 and finally heavyweight Gary Goldman pinned Randy Wells in 1:41.

In the two decisions matches, 97 pound Steve Saul beat Ron Stagg 10-4, and 147 pound Mike Scully stopped Bob O'Reilly 19-1.

Knicks Shoot Down Bucks' Win Streak

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The New York Knickerbockers, although outscored during the fourth quarter, ended the Milwaukee Bucks' two-game winning streak 115-101 Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

A sparse crowd of 3,089, held down by a heavy snowfall, saw the Knicks overpower Milwaukee behind 25 points from 6-10 center Willis Reed and 24 from Walt Frazier.

Jon McGlocklin was high point man for Milwaukee with 23.

New York built a 20-point lead, 49-29, early in the second quarter but a scoring blitz by Flynn Robinson, who finished with 17, narrowed the New York margin to 58-48 at the half.

The Bucks poured in 32 points during the fourth period, their most prolific of the game. But New York's 26 points during the final frame was enough to put the game away.

Eleventh Tie For the Flyers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If a tie game is like kissing your sister it's just one smooch after another for the Philadelphia Flyers.

The amazing Flyers continued their Year of the Tie Wednesday night by playing Toronto to a 4-4 National Hockey League stand-off. It was their fourth straight deadlock—every game so far in 1969—sixth in the last seven games and 11 of the season.

The NHL record is 23 ties by the 1962-63 Montreal Canadiens. In the only other action, Chicago downed St. Louis 3-1 and moved past Toronto into third place in the East Division.

Toronto Coach Punch Imlach took a gamble named Bruce and inserted him in the nets early in the final period after the Flyers had taken a 4-3 lead against veteran goalie Johnny Bower on Guy Gendron's second goal of the game.

Gamble only had to stop three shots in the final 18 minutes—the Leafs outshot the Flyers 44-19—and Mike Walton's goal at 3:08 forged the final tie of the evening.

Gendron and Jim Johnson gave Philly a 2-0 lead but Ron Ellis, Norm Ullman and Bill Sutherland scored quick goals to give the Leafs a 3-2 lead. Flyer rookie Dick Sarrazin tied it at 21 seconds of the middle session.

Goalie Doug Favell was brilliant for the Flyers, kicking away 40 shots, while the Toronto fans booed the 44-year-old Bower, who looked bad on several occasions.

Goals by Pit Martij, Bobby Hull—No. 28—and Stan Mikita carried Chicago past St. Louis' West Division leaders. After Martin and Gary Sabourin of the Blues traded goals, Hull scored the winner at 18:18 of the second period on a nifty passout from Gilles Marote. Mikita rebounded Ken Wharram's shot with three minutes left.

Billy Cunningham's 16-foot jump shot with two seconds to go beat Atlanta. Cunningham finished with 29 points, two more than Lou Hudson's team high of 27 for Atlanta.

Detroit lost its effectiveness in the Boston game when Dave Bing was sidelined with a knee injury and Hap Hairston was sent to a hospital for treatment of arm and leg injuries. John Havlicek's 27 points paced Boston to the triumph. Ed Miles carried the Pistons' load with 21 points.

New York started on a new streak after a 10-game winning skid was snapped Tuesday night. Willis Reed scored 24 points and Walt Frazier 24 to lead the Knicks' attack. Jon McGlocklin netted a Milwaukee high of 23 points.

Fish Story
JOHANNESBURG (AP)—
Alan Abraham, 24, had never been fishing before and when he went on his honeymoon to Santa Carolina Island, off the coast of Portuguese Mozambique, he decided to give it a try. He and another nonfisherman, Rieks Jurgens, who also comes from Johannesburg, started at the top and went deep sea fishing.

St. Joseph's and St. Mary's Win
The CYO intermediate league defending champion St. Joseph's of Kingston, began the new season on the winning track last night by trouncing St. Peter's of Kingston 125-40. Also St. Mary's of Kingston won their opening game with a 62-32 rout of St. Augustine's of Highland.

North Carolina Sub Filling the Breach

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Lee Dedmon didn't start playing basketball until his junior year in high school and you can't blame the North Carolina State Wolfpack for wishing he had waited until his junior year in college.

Dedmon is a 6-foot-10, 195-pound sophomore at the University of North Carolina. After graduation he wants to play basketball in Europe and then in the pros. Wednesday night, however, he settled for playing basketball in Chapel Hill, N.C., and led the second-ranked Tar Heels to an 83-63 win over arch-rival N.C. State with 27 points and 11 rebounds.

The big man from Baltimore was in the starting line-up for the first time because Rusty Clark, the Tar Heels' regular center, was out with an injury.

Even a 60-foot basket at the half ended by Dick Braucher didn't help the Wolfpack. That made it 36-34 North Carolina at the intermission and the Tar Heels pulled away in the second half, scoring 13 straight points during one stretch to take a 77-53 lead.

Only two other teams in The Associated Press' Top Ten saw action. Eighth-ranked St. John's celebrated its entrance into the elite group with a 66-45 rout of Seton Hall and 10th-rated New Mexico State crushed Pan American 109-74.

St. John's had to overcome a one-man show by Seton Hall sophomore Mel "The Marvel" Knight, who scored 34 of the Pirates' 45 points. The Redmen led only 26-25 at halftime but broke it open midway through the second half after trailing 34-32 with 12:41 left. John Warren sparked the winners with 16 points.

Unbeaten New Mexico State ran up a 51-33 lead at the half and coasted to their 13th straight victory and highest point of the season.

Coach Lou Henson cleared his bench and 11 players figured in the Aggie scoring. Jeff Smith had 19, followed by Sam Lacey and Jimmy Collins with 18 apiece.

In other major games, 19th-ranked Cincinnati squeaked West Virginia 68, VMI 65; Vir-gast crosstown rival Xavier 52, 37, Tulane 94 and Virginia Tech scored three points apiece in the 77, Richmond 67.

final 90 seconds as South Carolina rallied to edge Maryland 69-67. Disappointing Duke got by Wake Forest 85-81.

Elsewhere, Connecticut, once a Yankee Conference power, snapped a 10-game losing streak by shooting 57 per cent and routing Syracuse 103-84. It was the Huskies' first win of the season.

Georgia Tech made 26 of 35 free throws to turn back Clemson 72-66. The Air Force Academy won its first game in seven appearances at Denver, holding off the Pioneers 78-71 after rolling to a 50-29 halftime lead.

Mike Wren made five clutch points down the stretch to pace Miami of Ohio over Kent State 62-61.

In other major games, it was ranked Cincinnati squeaked West Virginia 68, VMI 65; Vir-gast crosstown rival Xavier 52, 37, Tulane 94 and Virginia Tech scored three points apiece in the 77, Richmond 67.

TIANO'S TOPICS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The imminent demise of five-man basketball at the YMCA saddens older sports buffs who recall the hallowed Broadway arena when it was the hub of Ulster county basketball. If you fancied yourself as a hotshot cager, that's where the action was.

But that was a long time ago and the game has undergone radical changes since those halcyon days. The deterioration of the Y league and independent area basketball in general has been a steady process. At this stage the trend appears irreversible.

There are many factors which contributed to the decline of the sport and it follows a nationwide trend. But at the grass roots, it was the lack of promotion, guidance and publicity that contributed to its collapse.

The fast breaking style of play was another demerit against the Y court. It was simply too small to cope with modern high speed games. Scoring was effected with ridiculous ease and the whole proposition went down the drain.

There are plans for a three-man league, but this is no longer basketball. It's simply an exercise in calisthenics.

The fate of the YMCA and other basketball leagues, softball circuits, etc. proves one thing. It takes private initiative to keep these sports going.

As one Y veteran put it last night: "It got so nobody really cared about the league."

LARRY GILLIS, the 22-year-old Dartmouth senior, who swept the weekend ski jumping competition at Bear Mountain, will be in the field for the international jumping event at Rosendale on Jan. 25-26. Bill Curran informs us . . . The crack Finnish jumpers will come to Rosendale directly from an international meet at Lake Placid . . . Basketball was the No. 1 sport in state high schools in the 1967-68 season, with 99.9 per cent of the NYSPHSAA's 727 member schools participating. Baseball was next with 98.6 per cent. Track was next with 84 per cent, followed by 11-man football, 72 per cent . . . Joe Scott has been invited for singles and doubles in that big tennis tourney at Hopewell Junction starting Friday . . . A pair of former Ulster county champions—Dick Little and Richard Smith—drew an invitation for doubles.

TWO OF ULSTER COUNTY's finest amateur golfers are no longer eligible for USGA competition in the area. Dr. William Odeane, the new athletic director at State University New Paltz, is one of the top five amateurs in the area. His basketball and golf coach—Doug Sheppard—is another top-flight—Odeane is ineligible as an athletic director, while Sheppard is about to assume duties as the golf professional at the new New Paltz layout, he is building with Eric Winky, Mike Perry and others . . . Orange County CC soccer star Guy Cassarini will be among All-American players to be honored this weekend at the 29th annual meeting of the National Soccer Coaches of America at the Hotel Commodore in New York City . . . Think today's professional pocket billiard stars compete for peanuts compared to bowlers? Don't you believe it . . . The 1969 jackpot for the tour is $650,000.

KINGSTON'S BOWLING ASSOCIATION'S Hall of Fame designations for eleven living and deceased greats of the past and present was a deserved tribute to an outstanding group of bowlers.

Names like Martin Kellenberger, Edward Modjeska, Wilson Ingalls, Larry Petersen Sr., and others may not mean much to the Young Turks of the day. But they were among the titans of their time and that's all you can ask.

Comparison between moderns and old timers with respect to Hall of Fame designation is utterly ridiculous. The simple basic requirements are these: was he among the best of his times, did he endure for a minimum of 15 years, and was he voted in by a committee of his peers? All other considerations amount to nothing less than obfuscation of the issue.

IN THIS YEAR'S balloting, three bowlers received votes who are shoo-ins for election in 1970 — Dick Howard, Buster Ferraro and Larry Petersen Jr. Beyond that there can only be speculation.

The unabashed fervor with which a couple of still active and highly competent bowlers are promoting themselves for the Hall of Fame reminds me of the Clint Hartung legend.

Remember Clint Hartung? He came up to the New York baseball Giants touted as one of the greatest rookie prospects of all time — a combination of Babe Ruth and Walter Johnson.

If you remember the Clint Hartung story, it was a classic in futility. In bits of six seasons, Old Floppy, the Hondo Hurricane, Hartung pitched to a 29-29 record and batted .212.

Hartung eventually vanished from the major league scene. The late Gary Schumacher of the defunct New York Journal-American was moved to a classic observation about Floppy.

"Hartung made the bad mistake of stopping off at the Polo Grounds on his way to Cooperstown," quipped Schumacher.

When we hear some of the Young Turks clamoring for admission through the hallowed gates of the Hall of Fame, we have a bit of advice for them: Keep your cool. If you have it and last for 15 years, nobody can keep you out. In the meantime, don't try to demean those already in.

Some of you may have made the same mistake of stopping off at the bowling alleys on your way to the hall.

668 for Shelightner

Big Bob Shelightner grabbed scoring honors by two pins — 668 to 666 — over Jerry Woodvine in the International League last night.

Shelightner stacked games of 203, 233 and 242, while Woodvine was decking 217, 224 and 225. Jim Amendola anchored with 643 off 205, 244, as Vince P.

Caldor Alarm Was Typed

TOWN OF ULSTER—A typewriter apparently fell from a shelf in the stockroom of the store due to the vibration created by a passing freight train at the rear of the store. The shock of the typewriter hitting the floor set off the alarm, the deputy said.

Deputy's cars were dispatched and the manager was called to the store. Deputies Gerald Miller, Bernard Schwertfeger and James Milesky investigated.

Deputy Milesky said a type-

Carnations
The name "pinks" for carnations is derived from the verb "pink," meaning to puncture or pierce. The flowers were so-called on account of the jagged edges of their petals.

Extinct Elk Found Near Middletown

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The State Museum and Science Service announced Wednesday the first known discovery in New York State of the remains of an extinct Ice Age moose-elk.

Eighteen bones from one of the creatures were uncovered near Middletown on the Blue Grass Sod Farm of Dewey Parr last March. The moose-elk roamed the earth 10,000 or more years ago.

The find was made by a contractor who was deepening a drainage ditch.

Auto Hearings Set in Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The

Federal Trade Commission

initiated hearings today on auto warranties in hopes of finding answers to gripes that go like this:

"The car warranties are phony. The public is being fleece for millions."

"I call up the dealer to make an appointment, and I have to wait two weeks."

"We, the consumer, need help

... I'm running scared."

These comments were excerpted from letters filed with the FTC by the American Automobile Association.

The AAA criticized the warranty program and urged the automakers to design cars that can be repaired, quickly, cheaply and easily.

The AAA complaints were only the first of a long list which will be heard by the FTC.

The leadoff witness in today's session was Betty Furness, presidential assistant for consumer affairs, to be followed by

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The hearing was triggered by still another critical report issued by the FTC itself in November. The report, two years in the making, made these points:

—The automakers should put more emphasis on repairs

"instead of focusing on sales."

—Better assembly line techniques could eliminate many warranty problems before they begin.

—The automakers should pay dealers more for warranty work.

Under the schedule for the hearings, the automakers will get their chance to reply on Friday.

Linzy Given Prison Term

Melvin Linzy, 20 of Poughkeepsie, who was found guilty Dec. 3 by a jury of first degree rape charged in the October grand jury indictment, was sentenced Wednesday in county court to an indeterminate term with a maximum of 15 years in Clinton

State Prison, Dannemora.

The sentence was handed down by Judge Raymond J.

Mino. Sherwood E. Davis appeared for the defendant and

James H. Fisher and Joseph

Traficanti Jr., assistant district attorneys appeared for the prosecution.

Linzy, also known as Melvin

Linear, was found guilty of the charge in connection with the complaint of a 17-year-old white girl on October 13.

State police investigators testified that Linzy picked up the girl while she was walking along Route 44-55 coming home from church. Linzy was taken into custody Oct. 15 at

Poughkeepsie by BCI In-

Dear Abby

Let Punishment Fit Crime

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune - N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last week I asked my mom if I could go to a party and she said yes. My girl friend's mom promised to drive us there, and mom promised to drive us back. Well, today my mom asked me to help her take down the Christmas decorations, so I took down a few things and then I got so tired I sat down to rest for a while. Then I went off and forgot all about it, and besides I just wasn't in the mood to do much of anything. In a while my mother came in and very politely told me that I wasn't going to the party. Do you think this was fair punishment for what I did? My mother PROMISED, and she went back on her word. Now my girl friend is mad at me because it spoiled all her plans for the party. My mom reads your column, so I wish you would put this in with what you think of mothers who go back on their promises. Thank you.

DEAR PUNISHED: The punishment should fit the "crime." Your mother should have ordered you to "get in the mood" for a little manual labor, like cleaning out the basement or garage.

DEAR ABBY: What can you give a man who has everything?

DEAR WONDERING: If I were with the Internal Revenue Department, I'd give him an AUDIT!

DEAR ABBY: Tell that 44-year-old woman who cried her eyes out and blamed her husband when she discovered she was pregnant, that she should dry her tears and thank God.

I was 46 when the same thing happened to me. I'll admit, I was terribly upset at first (shame on me!) but I had no choice, so I finally faced it with a smile. Abby, I had dentures and my hair was nearly white when I carried that child but now I can truthfully say that it was the most marvelous thing that could ever have happened to my husband and me. Our late baby has been the joy of our lives. I think there could be a hereditary factor involved with late babies as my brother was nearly 66 when he fathered twins. And my own mother was 48 and Dad was 65 when I was born.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that it is possible for two brown-eyed parents to produce a blue-eyed child, but the reverse is NOT true. According to the natural laws of genetics, the chances of two blue-eyed parents producing a brown-eyed child are about 15 to one million! This is what is known as a "mutation" — or a freak of nature, but it IS possible, so please print this for the benefit of those few to whom it may be important.

Don't give up giving advice, Abby. But please give up genetics.

SINCERELY YOURS,
S. F. H. HONOLULU

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY
JANUARY 10, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on public attention. What you do today is hardly a secret. Know this, act accordingly. Attention centers on legal area. Mate, partner may act in unusual manner. Be ready.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid argument with co-worker, close associate. People around you break from patterns. Study ARIES message. Take nothing for granted. Perform basic task with care. Avoid excess at social affair.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Judgment concerning children apt to be confused. Don't try forcing issues. Quiet discussion does more than forceful statement. Break routine. Dine out. Be with loved one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Conditions at home far from stable. Surprise message visitor creates atmosphere of change, excitement. Don't permit aura of confusion to cause neglect of essentials. Think.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on travel. Day features variety, stimulation through new contacts. You are on the move. But be sure of directions. Messages tend to be garbled. Short journey relieves tension.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Protect possessions. Store up safety measures at home. Strive to restore harmony. One who wants to borrow may be suffering temporary panic. Be fair but firm. Hold on to what you own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Permit logic equal time with impulse. Tendency is to have emotion take over. See persons, situations in realistic light. Emphasis on how you look. Day features sudden change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Your aid is asked with organization, money collection. Accept responsibility. Break-through indicated. You receive credit for past efforts. Lively evening indicated. Fine for theater.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may find a relationship on shaky grounds. Be realistic where promises, resolutions are concerned. Individual who presses point may be trying to provoke conflict.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on new aspect of career, community project. Order of day is change. One at the top steps down. This leaves room, opportunity for you. Be alert, aware. Push ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Wait for needed information. Avoid premature starts. Obtain hint from LEO message. Be receptive. You may not have necessary information. Keep communication lines open.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): One close to you expresses financial concern. Be flexible. Suggest alternatives. Don't feel you are tied to but one method. Reach out beyond apparent limitations.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are independent in thought, action. You succeed with original ideas because of inventiveness. Not everyone loves you but many are loyal allies. Greater recognition is due.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for LIBRA, SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Special word to ARIES: steer clear of legal complications.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Today's column will discuss the correct answer to yesterday's "Card Sense" bidding question. It involves the "Grand Slam Force."

Ely Culbertson invented this bid around 1935 and abandoned it because the bidders of that day weren't ready for it. Today it is in general expert use throughout the world. Specifically it is a five no-trump bid designed to ask partner how good his trumps are.

North merely bids two clubs in response to his partner's spade opening because he wants as much room as possible to maneuver. He decides to jump to three spades as his second bid and is delighted when South rebids to four hearts. This announces good hearts and a satisfactory opening call so North is interested in six or seven. A Blackwood routine will tell him that his partner holds the ace and king of hearts and king of spades but it won't tell him how good South's spades are.

The five no-trump grand slam force gets him this information. There are many ways of responding to this convention but the most approved method is that the more you bid, the better your trumps. South has opened one spade and bid and rebid hearts so that North is entitled to assume he has five spades and at least one of the three top honors. Six clubs would show this one honor and nothing more, six diamonds shows a top honor plus something extra. It might be a sixth trump but in this case it is the jack. With slightly better trumps South would respond six hearts, with king-queen-six or king-queen-jack fifth he would bid six spades while with anything better, he would jump right to seven spades.

North knows that the queen of spades is missing and bids six no-trump just to guard against a very bad spade break. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

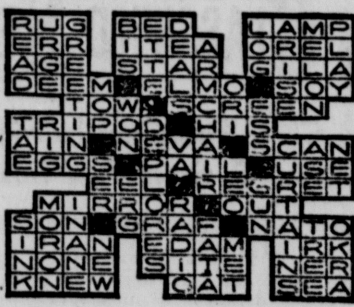

Birds' Vitamins

Oil glands, or preen glands, located on the back and in front of the tail of most birds serve not only to keep the plumage in good condition but also as a source of vitamin D, since the birds sometimes swallow it accidentally while preening, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

OFFICE CAT

An Englishman wanted to know the American's secret for getting ahead in business.

Mr. Price (the Yankee) — You should eat more fish as brain food. Give me $5 and I'll get some of the fish my wife gets me. Eat it and then see how you get on.

The Englishman forked over $5 and the fish was duly delivered.

Meeting the next day, the Yank asked if there had been any improvement. (The Englishman)

The foreman on a political job started bawling out one of his men.

Mr. Jones (the foreman)— We've had slow men on this job, but you are the slowest person I have ever seen. Aren't you quick at anything?

Joe (the workman yawning)— Well, nobody can get tired as quick as I can.

People who cough never go to the doctor. They go to the theaters.

Israeli Exodus Underway From Suez Canal Target

By United Press International

Israel today began evacuating all civilians from its Suez Canal town of Kantara, often the target of Arab guns in Israeli artillery duels with Egypt. Jordanian troops said they sent an Israeli patrol fleeing in new fighting across the Jordan River.

His 7th Stint

In Beirut, Lebanon's premier designate, Rashid Karami, began deliberations on a new cabinet while pledging his government to a hard-line Middle East policy with Israel. It will be his seventh stint as premier in 14 years. Kantara, once a thriving Arab town of 15,000, was captured by Israel during the 1967 war. Many of its Arab residents escaped before the advancing occupation troops. Those who stayed suffered through costly artillery duels across the canal. Israel said the evacuation of the remaining 800 Arab civilians in Operation Life Saving would take 10 days. Twenty refugee families began the trip to their new home at El Arish, 94 miles to the north, today. Egypt refused their request to be repatriated, Israeli officials said.

No Casualties

In Amman, Jordan's military headquarters said its troops caught an Israeli patrol sneaking across the Jordan and in a 20-minute cross-river duel with mortars, machine guns and artillery turned the patrol back. There were no casualties reported in the battling Wednesday night.

In Cairo, Egyptians given an alternative to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's political party for the first time, returned a massive vote of confidence in their leader Wednesday. Early returns in the race for 350 National Assembly seats showed candidates from Nasser's Arab Socialist Union winning handily.

Karami, 47, succeeds Abdullah Yafi as Lebanon's premier. Yafi resigned Wednesday in a dispute over his government's responsibility for the defense breakdown that permitted Israeli raiders to attack the Beirut Airport Dec. 29.

Sirhan Defense Objects To Jury Selection System

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The defense for Sirhan B. Sirhan has raised sweeping objections to the entire jury selection system in knitting up a legal tangle which may take years of appeal for the accused slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

At the second day of the murder trial Wednesday with Sirhan in a cheerful mood, chief defense counsel Grant Cooper argued that large segments of the Los Angeles population are automatically exempted from serving on a trial jury.

Cooper at the opening of today's session at 9:30 a.m. PST planned to challenge the constitutionality of the selection of the grand jurors who indicted Sirhan.

Both prosecution and defense said they were agreeable to beginning the selection of jurors next Monday. The trial was expected to be recessed until then after today's session.

The tiny, 24-year-old Sirhan waved heartily to his mother and two brothers in the rear of the fortress-like courtroom. At one time he chuckled and grinned broadly at a light exchange between the opposing lawyers.

Cooper, a veteran criminal trial lawyer, obviously expected none of his motions to be upheld by Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker but he was establishing a trial record which may be argued all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court in the fight to save Sirhan from the gas chamber.

The argument against the selection of trial jurors produced the first witness at the Sirhan trial.

William A. Goodwin, the jury commission supervisor for the county of Los Angeles, explained that whole blocs of the public could get exemption from service simply by the nature of their occupation.

Under questioning by Cooper, Goodwin said that included doctors, lawyers, nurses, school teachers, mail carriers, telephone company employees, dentists, university professors, ministers and a number of other categories.

The first piece of evidence was also submitted. It was a letter form used in directing prospective jurors to appear at the county courthouse. On the back is a space in which they can claim exemption because of their occupation.

Duryea on Assembly: '150 Partner' Setup

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Perry B. Duryea set out today to put his personal stamp on the Republican-controlled 1969 Assembly by streamlining its committees and seeking to make its members "one hundred fifty partners."

The new Assembly speaker had tried a year ago in his role of GOP minority leader to reduce the number of standing committees. He was thwarted, however, by Democrat Anthony J. Travia, who then held the powerful post.

Travia became a federal judge last summer, thus setting the stage for a struggle between Moses M. Weinstein, the Queens Democratic leader who moved up to acting speaker, and Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn.

Meanwhile, Duryea labored to return his party to control of the Assembly for the first time since 1964. His effort paid off in the Nov. 5 election.

The 78-member Republican majority made him speaker officially Wednesday, without a dissenting GOP vote. Steingut was runner-up, with 61 of the possible 72 Democratic votes, and became minority leader. Eight assemblymen backed Weinstein and one Louis DiSalvio of Manhattan.

The 48-year-old Duryea, of Montauk, Long Island, savored a second victory Wednesday when the Assembly agreed to cut the number of committees from 34 to 20.

Duryea had maintained that many of the committees performed no useful functions but existed mainly to provide extra chairmanships and staffs for veteran lawmakers.

Duryea chose John E. Kingston of Westbury, also of Long Island, to be majority leader. Donald Campbell of Amsterdam, a Republican assemblyman for 18 years before being defeated in the November election, was elected clerk and Joseph Casey of Troy, the Rensselaer County Republican chairman, was elected sergeant-at-arms.

MARINE HONORED — Ulster County Young Marine units assembled at State Armory Wednesday night to honor M/Sgt. Raymond E. Tator, a drill instructor who will report for active duty in the U. S. Marine Corps at Parris Island Jan. 16. Tator was presented gifts including an ID bracelet from the Young Marines, and a pen and desk set from Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League. He also received stamps and writing paper from the Marine Corps Auxiliary. Participating were (L) M/Sgt. Michael Mayone, a life-time friend of Tator, M/Sgt. Tator, Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer of the Young Marines and Pfc Charles McCullough of the Young Marines. After the ceremonies at the Armory, Tator was honored at a dinner at Eleven Main, which was attended by his wife and his parents. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Practical Vs. Complicated

PARIS (AP) — American efforts to get Vietnam peace talks started are snagged by a conflict between the practical West and the complicated East.

The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have the role of spectators, watching the development of debate in their opponents' camp. That debate apparently must be settled before Washington and Saigon can put forward new proposals.

The United States wants to overleap the debate which now seems to be a major obstacle to getting the talks started quickly. This attitude calls to mind the practical approach to the case of the intelligence ship Pueblo captured by North Korea.

In the Pueblo case, the main obstacle was North Korea's insistence that the Americans confess wrongdoing and apologize before the crew would be released. Here in Paris, the problem is whether there are two sides or four involved in the Vietnam War.

To Americans the question might seem trivial alongside the major goal of getting a conference started. To the Saigon government it is a matter of importance, of prestige, involving a risk of giving "face" to the enemy and placing him in a position to demand more.

To accomplish their goal in the Pueblo case, the practical Americans ceremonially signed a confession of wrongdoing and publicly denied it at the same time.

In Paris, the United States again seems eager to take the practical approach in order to get everybody to a conference table. Once there, the Americans would affirm publicly—as they have all along—that they still adhere to the concept that there are two sides and not four in the Vietnam War. The opponents would be free to interpret the shape of the table or the seating arrangements in any way they wished.

To Saigon, at the moment, this appears to be an effort on the part of the Americans to push through concessions favoring the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. South Vietnamese sources hint fretfully that they are being subjected to American arm twisting.

A U.S. delegation spokesman says: "We are still for a two-sided conference. We have made this clear here and in Saigon. We are trying to get over the hurdle and get the talks started without surrendering the concept of two sides."

This concept could, the Americans feel, be preserved by the device of a formal, public statement, and that a dividing line at the table would then be implicit. But Saigon contends that the line must be a real one, a visible one, so that there will be no suggestion whatever that the NLF as a "reality" but not a political entity which can speak for any segment of the South Vietnamese.

The Americans have had no formal or informal contact with the North Vietnamese since Jan. 2. The prospects for the opening of peace talks in the immediate future are gloomy. Even after the inauguration of President-elect Nixon on Jan. 20, the chances are that it still will be some time before the two sides can get down to the business at hand, informed sources say.

434 Reds Killed in Delta Drive; GI Toll of 101 Lowest in Weeks

SAIGON (UPI)—Fighting in Vietnam last week killed 101 American soldiers, U.S. spokesmen said today. It was one of the lowest seven-day death tolls in two years and reflected a three-day New Year's truce called by the Viet Cong.

South Vietnamese officers reported the end of a 16-day campaign by government troops in the Mekong Delta that "cleaned out" the U Minh forest and killed 434 Viet Cong guerrillas.

The weekly American casualty figure was the lowest since the week ending Oct. 19 when 100 U.S. troops died on Vietnam battlefields. It also was the third lowest in the last two years. Eighty-two Americans were killed the week ending Aug. 12, 1967, and 67 were killed the first week of 1967.

American wounded last week totaled 599, the lowest number since the week ending Oct. 19 and the fourth lowest in two years.

The 101 dead brought total U.S. dead in the war to 30,644. The wounded total rose to 192,926.

The South Vietnamese also reported a sharp drop in casualties last week. They said 150 government soldiers were killed and 620 wounded, compared to 279 killed and 901 wounded the previous week. Communist dead for the week ending Jan. 4 were listed as 1,846, compared to 2,236 a week earlier.

South Vietnamese troops launched their drive through the U Minh forest Dec. 22 and ended it Tuesday, military spokesmen said. They destroyed scores of guerrilla structures, including a propaganda press center and a movie theater, in the district 135 miles southwest of Saigon which for more than two decades has served as a guerrilla training and rest area.

The spokesmen said the multi-battalion operation also freed 90 prisoners of the Viet Cong and captured 173 Communist soldiers. Another 315 Viet Cong agreed to join the government side, they said.
